Death Comes To Pope Pius

U.S. Halts Quemoy Escorts

Convoys Will Be Revived If Reds Reopen Shelling

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States announced Wednesday that it had stopped escorting Chinese Nationalist supply vessels to Quemoy. The action was an apparent effort to nail down a permanent cease-fire in the Formosa Strait.

But the State Department warned that the convoys by U.S. warships would be resumed "forthwith" if the Chinese Communists reopened their artillery bombardment of the Nationalist-held offshore islands.

The department said the original order providing for the U.S. escorts still was in effect. But it said the fact that the Reds had halted their attacks under the seven-day ceasefire announced Sunday "suspends the military necessity" for the escorts.

Would Not Comment

Department press officer Lincoln White declined to say specifically whether the U.S. action was designed to persuade the Chinese Communists to extend their ceasefire beyond the seven day period.

But he said the "entire object" of the United States has been to achieve a halt in the fighting, and "obviously we hope the cease fire will continue." Some word on this may come Friday from U.S.-Red China negotiations in Warsaw, Poland.

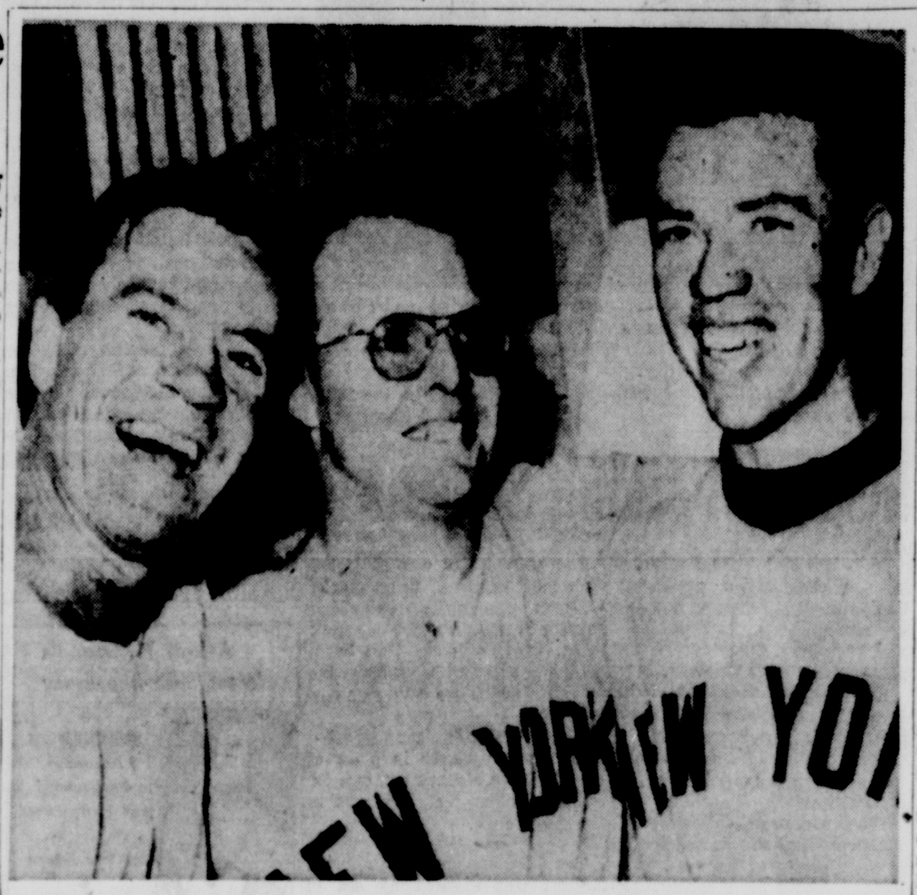

White said he assumed that U.S. warships stopped escorting the nationalist vessels as soon as the Reds stopped shelling Quemoy. The Peiping government said in a broadcast heard in Formosa that no U.S. warships had been observed near Quemoy since early Monday.

Asked For Withdrawal

The Red broadcast also aired a new demand for withdrawal of U.S. forces from Formosa. It said this would assure "calm and quiet" in the Formosa Strait. If U.S. troops stay there, it said, "military typhoons will occur every day."

The State Department said there was "full consultation" with the Chinese Nationalist government of Chiang Kai-shek "as to this matter" of the convoys. It did not say whether Chiang had agreed that the convoys should be halted.

Dispatches from Formosa last Monday said Chiang was opposed to any halt in the escort activity during the cease fire.

Pull Yanks Even In Series

Three New York Yanks who played prominent roles in defeat of Milwaukee's Braves in the sixth World Series game yesterday group together in dressing room in jubilant mood. From left, Hank Bauer, who hit homer; Ryne Duren, winning pitcher in relief, and Gil McDougald, who smashed 10th inning homer. By winning 4-3, the Yanks evened the series at three games each. Russia Asks Nuclear Test Ban Priority

U.S. Opposes Move As Fate Of Geneva Talks Seen At Stake

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union demanded Wednesday the United Nations give top priority to the question of ending nuclear weapons tests. The Russians ran up against immediate opposition from the United States.

The clash took place in the 81-nation political committee, where the United States made clear that its prime concern is no action be taken here that might jeopardize the success of crucial big power talks coming up in Geneva.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin declared that all members of the U.N. should have a chance to give their views on suspension of tests in advance of the Oct. 31st Geneva talks.

Lodge Asks Broad Debate

The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union will discuss methods of controlling an agreement on suspension of tests. Experts from East and West have already drawn up the technical requirements.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge asked that the disarmament debate here be undertaken on a broad scale. This would include the question of suspending tests, scaling down of military budgets, and recommendations of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold on disarmament.

Lodge said he rejected Zorin's insinuations that anyone who did not agree with him was opposed to progress in disarmament.

"President Eisenhower has made it abundantly clear how anxious we are to reach agreement on suspension of tests," he added.

No Action Taken

The committee took no action, but adjourned until Thursday.

But behind the scenes, the United States was working on a resolution that would counter both Soviet and Indian resolutions already before the committee calling for an immediate halt to tests without waiting for any formal agreement.

The United States was not able to disclose the final language of its resolution, since this was the subject of continuing consultation.

Court Rules:

Va. Private Schools Can't Use Teachers Paid By State Funds

HARRISONBURG, Va. (UPI)—A federal district judge ruled on Wednesday that private, makeshift schools in Charlottesville and Warren County must either admit Negro students or stop using publicly-paid school teachers.

Judge John Paul, without ruling on the Virginia anti-integration laws that shut down three public schools in the two localities, said emergency private classes constituted an "obvious evasion of the (desegregation) mandate of the Supreme Court" as long as their teachers were paid by public funds.

He made the order effective next Wednesday. It offered Charlottesville and Warren County the alternatives of either shutting down the private schools, reorganizing them without the help of public school teachers, or admitting Negro children.

Private schools are already opened in Charlottesville for some 1,600 displaced students and were scheduled to open Thursday in Warren County for 1,000 students.

Paul, who ordered both Warren County and Charlottesville to integrate earlier, said his court "does not have the right" to rule on the constitutionality of the state's so-called "massive resistance" laws or to order that classes be resumed in closed school buildings.

He noted the controversial laws were being tested in the state Supreme Court of Appeals. He said his court, "recognizing the propriety of the state court," would not rule on the laws while their validity was pending in the state court.

State Atty.-Gen. Albertis S. Harrison filed the suit in the state Supreme Court to test the validity of the anti-integration laws. Apparently this was an effort to keep the issue in a state court and to prevent just such a ruling as Paul might otherwise have made.

But Paul pointed out that public school teachers, idled by the school closings, were teaching private segregated classes and still were being paid by the state and city.

"All that has happened is that they have closed the school buildings," he said. "It is a pure evasion of the law."

DEATH MOURNED — Pope Pius XII, champion of peace in an era of war, died at his summer place at Castel Gondalfo early today in the 20th year of his arduous reign. The "Pope Of Peace," 262nd supreme pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church, was 82.

Frail Pontiff's Valiant Heart Finally Stilled

Body Will Be Borne Back To Vatican City For Funeral Rites

CASTEL GONDOLFO, Italy (AP)—Pius XII, for 19 troubled years the "Pope of Peace," died Thursday in the papal summer castle alongside Lake Albano.

A crucifix lay on his chest and a rosary in his hands in the final hours.

Two strokes, developing into a grave condition of the heart and lungs, carried him away under the weight of his 82 years.

The Vatican radio said death occurred at 3:52 a.m. (9:52 p.m. EST Wednesday).

The body will be borne back to Vatican City, 18 miles from Castel Gandolfo, for the funeral rites.

He was the 261st pope and the first to die outside Rome since the 18th century.

The new pope will be designated by the College of Cardinals in an election expected to be held at the Vatican within the next two or three weeks — after a nine-day period of mourning.

All the popes for the last 400 years have come from Italy. The feeling at the Vatican has been that this likely will be the case again even though Italians no longer command a majority in the College of Cardinals.

Heart Finally Gives Way

His valiant heart, grieved by years of war and the onslaughts of Communist atheism, finally gave way after a period of more than 12 hours in which doctors despaired of saving him.

In 1953 and 1954 his stamina had overcome serious illnesses, but this time his age and the two strokes affecting his circulatory system were too heavy a burden.

He had spent a strenuous summer at this papal summer estate.

Last week he had a recurrence of gastritis and hiccups, accompaniments of the illness that took him to the verge of death in December 1954.

The Pope showed some improvement, and last Friday warmly welcomed Francis Cardinal Spellman, heading a pilgrimage of 600 Americans. Doctors continued to urge him to rest, and asked him to conserve his strength by not talking at one audience. He continued active, however, and held an audience Sunday.

That night, while being treated for his stomach ailment, he suddenly weakened. The first stroke came Monday morning.

Slowly he rallied. He emerged from a coma and shook off partial paralysis. Medical bulletins reflected his progress.

But another stroke Wednesday, 47 hours after the first, wiped out the gains. A few hours later the physicians reported:

"The Pope is suffering a grave cardiac pulmonary collapse."

This meant he could no longer breathe effectively due to a breakdown of the functions of the heart and its circulatory system, with involvement of the lungs.

He lapsed into unconsciousness as the sun set Wednesday night and then he lay for hours breathing heavily in the bare white sickroom.

A Mass for the dying was celebrated in a chapel next to the sickroom just after midnight, and broadcast over Vatican radio. The celebrant was Msgr. Domenico Tardi, pro-secretary of state at the Vatican.

Steadily, the Pope's blood pressure fell and his temperature rose. It was 102 Wednesday afternoon. Early Thursday it reached 107.6.

Cardinals Notified

Embassies and legations of about 50 nations accredited to the Vatican were immediately notified of the Pope's death.

So were cardinals throughout the world who must come to Rome for the conclave to elect the new pope. The conclave ordinarily would start in two or three weeks, but it may be called sooner because of the speed of modern transportation.

Directed by their dean, French-born Engene Cardinal Tisserant, cardinals in Rome will gather as soon as possible upon procedure for the "interregnum," the period

Man-Carrying Space Balloon Begins Descent

ALAMAGORDO, N.M. (UPI)—The Air Force said Wednesday night that a balloon which carried a young officer to the edge of outer space has begun to descend.

A spokesman at Holloman Air Force Development Center said it was not known why the balloon, after attaining an altitude of 19 miles, was coming back to earth.

"All we know is that he is coming down," the spokesman said.

The man in the balloon, Lt. Clifford M. McClure, 26, of Anderson, S.C., soared over the New Mexico desert Wednesday to an altitude of 99,300 feet.

He had been expected to reach an altitude of 100,000 feet before nightfall, remain aloft during the night, continue his ascent briefly Thursday, and then descend.

Lt. McClure radioed to a board of nine scientists that at 99,300 feet he could "see the edge between darkness and light," and that "it's a very startling sight".

McClure is sealed in a gondola in a helium-filled plastic balloon.

Air Force authorities said McClure would be studied more closely by remote radio control than any other person to venture to that altitude. A local radio station planned to tape his comments from the edge of space for broadcast in this area.

The ascension was delayed on Tuesday when a wind gust collapsed another balloon at the desert launching site.

Previously, the launching had been scheduled at Crosby, Minn., but was switched to here because it was feared that prevailing winds would carry a balloon over the Canadian wilds.

Patterson Says Ike To Offer New Atom Peace Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. James T. Patterson (R-Conn.) said Wednesday President Eisenhower will unveil "a dynamic new atoms for peace plan" sometime this month.

Patterson, a member of the joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, said the "far-reaching proposal calls for the use of nuclear weapons for peaceful and scientific projects."

All members of the United Nations would be offered the use of nuclear explosives for peaceful purposes under the Eisenhower plan, he said.

Nixon Charges Demos Favor "Weak" Policy

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon accused the Democrats Wednesday night of advocating a "weak" Far Eastern policy that would surrender the Quemoy and Matsu islands to the Chinese Communists.

Nixon, who also took a swing at former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, struck back at Democratic critics of the Eisenhower administration's foreign policy in a speech at a testimonial dinner for retiring Sen. Edward Martin (R-Pa.).

The vice president, opening a three-day campaign tour of Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, said the nation's "sad experience" with a Democratic foreign policy showed that "a firm policy has a better chance to produce peace than a weak policy."

Nixon said the "most vocal" among present Democratic critics "thought Mr. Acheson was buying peace in Korea when he announced in January, 1950, that Korea was outside of the defense zone of the United States."

"Yet six months after he made that announcement American boys were dying in defense of Korea," Nixon said.

Nixon followed up his comments on Acheson's policies by declaring that the Communists would be mistaken if they thought the U.S. foreign policy debate meant that the American people would be divided if Eisenhower decided further aggression called for U.S. intervention.

"There is no question but that the overwhelming majority of the American people will back the President of the United States to the hilt in the event he should make such a decision," he said.

U.S. Missilemen Reach Formosa

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—A battalion of Nike-Hercules missilemen landed on Formosa Wednesday to bolster U.S. defenses in the Far East. American warships were on the alert in the Formosa Strait to resume escort duty with Nationalist supply convoys if needed.

The State Department in Washington announced officially that ships of the U.S. 7th Fleet had stopped escorting Nationalist convoys to the offshore Quemoy islands following Communist China's ceasefire declaration Monday. The announcement added that the escorts would begin again if and when the Communists resumed their saturation shelling of the Quemoys.

The Chinese Nationalists took advantage of the lull in the crisis and stepped up supply operations to the battered offshore islands.

The 703 men of the U.S. 2nd Missile Battalion debarked from the USS Breckenridge at Keelung and immediately began preparations for the installation of the powerful Nike-Hercules missiles. Officers estimated the battalion would be ready for action in about a week.

Ike Completes White House Staff Shakeup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower virtually completed a shakeup of the White House staff Wednesday by naming Gerald D. Morgan, his special counsel for three years, as the deputy assistant to the President.

The President chose David W. Kendall, prominent Michigan Republican and former general counsel of the Treasury, to succeed Morgan as special White House counsel, effective Nov. 1. For a time, Kendall was associated with the late Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

The White House reorganization was prompted by the resignation of Presidential Aide Sherman Adams. He announced his departure Sept. 22 because of the furor raised by disclosure of his gifts from Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine.

Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, who held the post given to Morgan, was sworn in Tuesday to succeed Adams as the President's top assistant.

Eisenhower previously named two other deputy assistants who will rank slightly below Morgan. They were Robert E. Merriam, in charge of governmental affairs, and Bryce N. Harlow, in charge of congressional liaison.

Donald Paarlberg, former assistant secretary of agriculture, was sworn in Wednesday as the President's new assistant for economic affairs. He succeeds Gabriel Hauge who recently resigned to become a New York bank official.

Janice No Threat To U. S. Mainland

MIAMI (UPI)—Hurricane Janice, deadliest but possibly the last of the season, aimed northeastward between Cape Hatteras, N.C., and Bermuda Wednesday. The storm was diminishing and posed no threat to the mainland.

The storm took at least 19 lives in its sweep across the Bahamas.

A noon e.d.t. advisory of the Miami Weather Bureau said Janice's highest winds had dropped to 75 to 85 miles an hour and the storm was pointing more to the northeast and away from the Atlantic Coastline.

"Hurricane Janice presents no threat to the U.S. mainland, except for high swells and rough seas along the open coast from the North Carolina capes southward," the advisory said.

Navy Courier Plane Crash Kills Pilot

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)—A U.S. Navy courier plane from the aircraft carrier Randolph crashed into the sea three miles off Famagusta today, killing the pilot.

All GIs Will Be Out Of Lebanon By October 31

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States has agreed to withdraw all its military forces from troubled Lebanon by the end of this month "barring unforeseen developments," the State Department announced Wednesday.

The department said the withdrawal target date was set by agreement with the new Lebanese government of President Fuad Chehab despite a new wave of anti-government disorders by followers of former President Camille N. Chamoun.

It said that the "current unrest appears to have essentially domestic origins" unlike the situation in July when Chamoun's charges of outside aid to Lebanese rebels prompted this country to send in troops to bolster his tottering pro-Western regime.

The Defense Department said that between 6,000 and 7,000 American soldiers are still stationed in the tiny Middle Eastern nation.

Soviet-Yugo Talks

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had a long talk Wednesday with the Yugoslav ambassador to the Soviet Union, Velko Micunovic, the official East German news service ADN reported.

Lebanon's New Premier Hands In Resignation

BEIRUT (AP)—Lebanon's Premier Raschid Karami handed his resignation to President Fuad Chehab Wednesday night.

It was not immediately known whether Chehab accepted it. Karami, leader of the rebellion in Tripoli, has been premier only two weeks.

Karami's action followed the refusal of 31 deputies in the Lebanese Parliament to give him a vote of confidence.

The deputies signed a petition declaring no-confidence and Parliament Speaker Adil Osseiran submitted it to President Chehab.

The resignation move came as new disorders broke out in the capital.

Christian Phalangist foes of Karami charged that more than 100 of their followers had been kidnaped. Lebanese security forces took up new positions between the Phalangist and Moslem sectors of the city and it appeared they had the situation in hand for the moment.

Nuclear Device Exploded Far Beneath Nev. Desert

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. — (UPI) — American scientists Wednesday exploded an underground nuclear device, smothering its radiation beneath a chamber carved deep inside a 7,000-foot southern desert mesa.

The third full-scale test of a scheduled 1958 series was observed about 2½ miles from the entrance to a tunnel bored 415 feet under rock and dirt on a remote section of this test site.

Although there were no immediate outward effects of the detonation, just after a long "beep" for zero hour the ground seemed to light up on the southeast side of the mesa. This was the shock wave, according to best estimates of the phenomenon.

Some observers heard a faint rumble. Others heard nothing.

But there was a distinct feeling that the earth was shaking ever so faintly like a minor earthquake.

Shortly afterward, a cloud of dust rose from the side of the mesa in the immediate vicinity of the tunnel, apparently caused by the shock wave. Other puffs of dust arose over about a half mile on the precipice, some from the shock and others from falling rocks.

But seismologists and geologists close by at special recording stations—one-half to 40 miles distant—began checking the shock wave through the earth's surface. They hoped to get data on transmission of earthquake-like energy as revealed by seismic signals.

The shot, called "Tamalpais" for a peak in the San Francisco Bay area, went off as scheduled at 6 p.m. e.d.t. with a carefully designed yield in the sub-kiloton range.

CBS Correspondent Expelled By Russia

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The State Department accused Russia of attempted intimidation for ordering the Columbia Broadcasting System to close its Moscow bureau in reprisal for CBS programs aired in this country.

The Soviets ordered Paul Niven, CBS Moscow correspondent, to halt all newscasts immediately and to leave within two weeks because of what they called "a number of anti-Soviet broadcasts and TV programs" carried by the network in the United States.

They particularly cited a CBS television drama, "The Plot To Kill Stalin", which pictured Nikita S. Khrushchev as part of a deadly conspiracy to kill the late Russian premier. Russia already has protested the show to the State Department as a "filthy slander."

Pakistan To Remain In Western Camp

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials Wednesday welcomed assurances that Pakistan will remain firmly committed in its defense alliances with the West.

In declaring martial law in Pakistan Tuesday night, President Iskander Mirza emphasized that the country will observe its commitments to both the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and the Baghdad Pact.

U.S. Hopes To Put Manned Capsule Into Orbit By 1961

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States will try to put a man in space in an orbiting capsule within the next two to three years, Defense Department officials disclosed Wednesday.

The 65 million dollar program calls for the manned capsule to circle the earth for 24 hours, and possibly 10 to 12 orbits, before returning safely to the ground. But even one orbit of the earth would be considered a success.

First hint of the project came from Roy W. Johnson, director of the Defense Department's Advanced Research Projects Agency, in a speech at Stamford, Conn., Tuesday night.

Departing from his prepared text, Johnson said "It is our plan to have a man in space in 24 to 36 months."

It was first believed that Johnson was referring to the Air Force's X15 rocket plane, which will reach an altitude of 100 miles but will not orbit. But defense officials said Wednesday Johnson actually was speaking of an entirely new program.

For one thing, they said, the manned space ship will be a "capsule," not a winged craft like the X15. Presumably one of the new intercontinental ballistic missiles, the Atlas or Titan, would be used to hurtle the capsule into space.

Means of returning the capsule and its occupant to earth have not been definitely determined.

In any case, the feat is considered far more difficult than sending an unmanned rocket to the moon. Another U.S. attempt to launch a moon rocket is expected to be made this week-end.

FCPC Has No Plan To Probe Election Campaign Charges

BALTIMORE (AP) — A nonpartisan committee announced Wednesday it had, in effect, no plan to investigate charges of unfair tactics in Maryland's election campaign.

The charges were lodged by Republicans after Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senate, said he had been "reliably informed" Republicans were using the services of Donald A. Surine.

Surine, one-time FBI agent, was involved in a 1950 Maryland election scandal which resulted in the creation of the Fair Campaign Practices Committee (FCPC).

In a report on the Republican charges, FCPC Executive Director Bruce Felknor said:

"It is our position that both the right and the responsibility to examine, report and act on such complaints belongs to the voters and to the press in the state or district concerned."

D'Alesandro said after his original statement his report on Surine came from a "veteran and thoroughly reliable" Baltimore newspaperman. He said the newsman had told him Surine had met with Republican party leaders, including gubernatorial candidate James P. S. Devereux.

Devereux denied this, called for an apology and complained to the FCPA, a citizens group set up after a Senate subcommittee investigated the 1950 election. The committee found that supporters of Republican John Marshall Butler had used a fake photograph and other "despicable" tactics had been used in his successful campaign against veteran Democratic Sen. Millard E. Tydings.

Surine and Jonkel were convicted and fined for violations of State election laws.

With his announcement of the FCPC's reaction to the Devereux complaint, Felknor released a copy of a letter D'Alesandro had written the committee in response to its request for his side of the case.

"The information relative to Surine was volunteered to me in confidence by a Baltimore newspaperman of long experience and unquestioned reliability," said the letter.

"Recalling that the activities of Surine and Jon Jonkel did not come to light until after the Tydings-Butler campaign, I acted immediately to bring the information I received to the public.

"You will note that neither of my statements accused either Mr. Devereux or Mr. Beall (Sen. J. Glenn Beall), my opponent, of having hired Surine. Trusting that this information will be of use to you, I am

Faubus Makes Private School Fund Appeal

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus made a personal and urgent nationwide appeal Wednesday for contributions to operate a private, segregated high school system in Little Rock churches, lodge halls and rumpus rooms.

He ordered copies of the appeal sent to thousands of persons who have written, telegraphed or telephoned him asking how they can help.

"It is urgent that the students reenter school at the earliest possible date," the letter said in part.

"This struggle to preserve constitutional rights, not only for the citizens of Little Rock, but also for all the nation, is most urgent."

Dr. T.J. Raney, president of the Little Rock Private School Corporation, signed the letter above Faubus' signature.

It seemed obvious that there would be no need to make a nationwide appeal for funds if Little Rock and Arkansas segregationists were contributing as the corporation had expected.

But Raney and other private school officials refused to say how much has been contributed in a campaign that began more than a week ago.

They have mentioned individual amounts such as $5,000 and $3,000 but will not give a total.

Another Sullivan Joins Navy Ranks

WATERLOO, Iowa (AP) — Another Waterloo Sullivan has joined the ranks of the U.S. Navy.

He is James T. Sullivan, 17, son of one of the five "fighting Sullivan brothers" of Waterloo who were killed during World War II in a single Pacific engagement.

Jim is the son of Albert, youngest of the five Sullivans and the only brother who married. The others were Francis, George, Joseph, and Madison.

Jim was only 20 months old when his father, then 20, and his four uncles lost their lives in the sinking of the USS Juneau Nov. 13, 1942, off the coast of Guadalcanal.

Police Probe Idea Shunned By Legislators

BALTIMORE (AP) — Leaders of the Legislative Council turned down Wednesday a proposal that the House of Delegates investigate a report critical of the State Police.

Senate President Goldstein (D-Calvert) suggested any necessary action could be taken by Gov. McKeldin.

The governor already has said that if there are any charges to be made, they should be placed in court.

He rejected a proposal that the House of Delegates convert itself into a Grand Inquest to go into the report by the Criminal Justice Commission.

Failing to get a reception from the legislators, Gordon M. Allen, president of the commission said it is not prepared to start any other kind of action.

The commission in addition to criticizing some actions in the case, reported it also found other "improprieties" within the State Police Department.

The commission, a Community Chest supported agency, said it did not have the staff to make a full investigation or powers to summon witnesses and records.

In rejecting Legislative Council intervention, Goldstein said he was not convinced of "the assumption" that it is necessary or desirable.

The State Police Department is an agency of the executive branch, he pointed out.

"Under long tested principles of the separation of powers, the legislative branch should not intrude into the day-to-day operations of any executive agency except for compelling reasons," Goldstein said.

The allegations by the Justice Commission — if true — could be corrected "by simple administrative action," he maintained.

Frail Pontiff's

from the death of the Pope to the election of a new pontiff.

One of their first tasks will be to arrange for the nine-day period of solemn mourning that will be followed by burial in the Vatican grottos, the Pope's sepulcher will be near the spot where church records say St. Peter, considered by Roman Catholics as the first pope, was buried.

Pope Of The People

The pope who died Thursday was in many respects one of the most remarkable men the 20th century has known. There is no doubt the church will count him among its greatest popes.

Many terms were used to describe him. He was the "Pope of Peace," a fighter for an end to war. He was the "modern Pope," the first to use an airplane, the first to know the United States firsthand, the first to use a typewriter and an electric razor.

But first of all he was a pope of the people. He was accessible as no other pontiff before him, receiving more than 10 million persons in audience. Thousands of American Protestants as well as Catholics had seen him at the Vatican and heard him speak in English.

He spoke out forcefully and frequently on the world's problems, ranging from war to questions of family life.

Pius XII was born Eugenio Pacelli in Rome March 2, 1876. A grandfather was a papal official who founded L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican newspaper; his father was a consistorial advocate who pleaded canon law before church courts, and Eugenio was an altar boy at 10. He was ordained to the priesthood at 23 and became an assistant at the Vatican.

"PLANETARY PARKING STRUCTURE" — Reginald D. Wilson starts up his working model of a parking garage that he invented after seeing a ferris wheel in operation. The "planetary parking structure" which is the name that the U.S. Patent Office gave the device, is a system of gearing in which one or more toothed wheels revolve around the axis of a larger wheel with which they mesh. The smaller wheels rotate axially at the same time they are revolving on the big wheel. Sort of a "wheel in a wheel in a wheel." (AP Photofax)

Ferris Wheel Inspires Parking Structure

By WILLIAM B. HARWOOD

BALTIMORE (AP)—Like Ezekiel, Reginald D. Wilson saw a wheel — a ferris wheel. And it gave him an idea he thinks will run circles around the parking industry.

"Planetary parking structure" is the name the U. S. Patent Office gave the device. But don't be misled. Wilson has both feet on the ground. He is concerned with parking automobiles, not rocket ships.

Planetary simply describes an established system of gearing in which one or more toothed wheels revolve around the axis of a larger wheel with which they mesh. The smaller wheels rotate axially at the same time they are revolving on the big wheel. Sort of a "wheel in a wheel in a wheel," to quote Ezekiel again.

That's the principle of Wilson's invention. It consists of nine trays or platforms, each 22 by 57 feet. Each group of three trays is pivoted to a 30-foot wheel on either end. These three wheels in turn are geared to larger 60-foot wheels, one on each side of the structure.

The large wheels are mounted on huge steel-girdered towers.

An entire unit would be 65 feet in depth, 84 feet wide and about 84 feet tall—a giant of a thing as high as an 8-story building.

Each of the nine platforms, Wilson says, is designed to hold six automobiles for a total of 54 on each parking structure.

The way Wilson envisions it. You'd park your car, lock it and leave it. It might do a lot of traveling during the day, rotating in place from one position to another on the planetary parking structure. But no one would drive it or touch it and no other car could dent it until you came back to it.

Then, says Wilson, you'd present your parking ticket which would be stamped with the number of the platform on which you had parked. The single attendant —Wilson says it could be a girl who would serve both as cashier and operator—would push the button for your platform. The gears would whirl, the wheels would turn and in three minutes or less —depending on whether it was at the top or near the bottom of the planetary—your car would be at ground level and you could drive off.

Wilson has not built a life-size prototype of his planetary parking structure. He has neither the money nor the ability, he says. But he has put together a refined, electrified, working model. And it runs like a little gem. It's more fun to operate than a model train.

At least two structural engineers who have looked at it describe it as "ingenious."

Is it feasible? They say yes—from a construction standpoint. But both doubt whether it would be economically feasible. Both add, however, they have not analyzed the costs involved.

Wilson says others have told him it would be. That after the original prototype is built, others could be massed produced for about $60,000 each. Wilson admits this is just a guesstimate.

Those who are skeptical of Wilson's cost estimate are unstinting in their praise of his idea. They think it would be a highly saleable item as a moving display case for items considerably less weighty than automobiles.

One auto dealer was delighted with the thought of using one of Wilson's planetaries, somewhat smaller in size, in a new car show room, where you could sit back, push a button and bring down the model in which the customer was interested.

A retired Navy officer suggested using the structures in place of elevator's on aircraft carriers for quicker delivery of airplanes to the flight deck.

Coal Mining By Remote Control Made Possible By New Machine

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A remote control system, which permits men to mine coal without going underground, was announced jointly Wednesday by Joy Manufacturing Co. and Union Carbide Corp.

Spokesmen for the two firms said tests of an "electronically sensitive" continuous mining machine already have proved that the machine is capable of "advancing at an entry rate of more than 100 feet an hour."

Not only does the machine dig coal by remote control, but it also loads the diggings onto a heavy-duty continuous transport system that delivers the coal to an outside discharge station.

Operated by a man at an electronic control center, the device was originally developed by Union Carbide Olefins Co., a division of Union Carbide. Under an agreement signed Wednesday, Joy was given the right to manufacture, use, sell and lease the unique system.

Primarily tested in penetration of high-wall coal, experts feel, the system might be made applicable to underground deep mines in five to ten years.

For several months now, the Peabody Coal Co. of St. Louis, Mo. has been operating one of the prototype mining machines in three of its three mines. Peabody Coal is the largest strip mining company in the world.

The "nerve center" of the new system is outside the mine where the electronic controls are manned. Sensing elements report electronically to the operator and tell whether the machine is properly heading into coal. The operator, supplied with this information, then is able to guide the digging machine into the coal seam.

The convey system which hauls the loose coal outside the mine is designed to operate under conditions where local roof falls may occur.

Commercial development of the new system now is being undertaken by Joy, but it will be about 18 months before the first units are placed into every-day operation at the Peabody mines.

Soviet Delegation Tours Bethlehem Steel Plant

BALTIMORE (AP) — Thirteen Russian steel plant managers and technicians toured the mammoth Bethlehem Steel plant at nearby Sparrows Point Wednesday.

No press interviews were allowed, in compliance with the Russians' wishes and the State Department's agreement.

However, as the Russians left a preliminary briefing at the plant's main office, Alexander F. Borissov, head of the delegation, saw the photographers waiting and said in near-perfect English, "We have time for pictures."

As the group walked to the chartered bus for the plant tour, a reporter asked Borissov what he thought of the American steel plants.

"I cannot speak English," he said. "Do you speak Russian?"

After the reporter answered no, Borissov said:

"Any conversation would be useless."

With a shrug and a smile, he boarded the bus.

The Soviet representatives are returning a visit by a group of American steel and iron ore mining men to the Soviet Union last Spring under an exchange agreement.

They have visited steel plants in Michigan, Indiana, West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Negro Found Dying Along Country Road

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Two men told police a 62-year-old Negro man gasped and died Wednesday shortly after they found him lying on a country road about 20 miles south of here.

The report came from Thomas Spicer and Winfield Payton, both of Golden Hill. The victim was identified as Herman Ennals of Golden Hill.

Dorchester County Medical Examiner Dr. John Mace said an autopsy will be performed to determine the exact cause of death. He said there appeared to be no visible signs of injury.

Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of the radio, was only 21 years old when he flashed the first wireless signal in 1895.

Army Prepares For Scientists' Court-Martial

EDGEWOOD, Md. (AP)—Eleven young soldier scientists were formally presented Wednesday with charges of drunk and disorderly conduct resulting from a farewell party they threw for a buddy Sept. 25. At the same time, the legal military machinery was started for their special court martial.

The 11 defendants, who range in age from 19 to 24, heard the charges read in the presence of their civilian lawyer, Hyman A. Pressman of Baltimore.

A 15-man court consisting of three lieutenant colonels, five majors, four captains, a first lieutenant and two chief warrant officers —was named to hear the case.

Brig. Gen. Harold Walmsley, commander of the Army Chemical Center here, ordered the court to convene anytime after tomorrow, Oct. 9. The exact date will be agreed upon by the Army's trial counsel, 1st Lt. Walter V. Ferris Jr., who will act as prosecutor, and Pressman.

It may be some time off, however, because Pressman Wednesday presented to Capt. Phillip Polac, post judge advocate, a demand that a further investigation be made of the charges.

Pressman quoted Article 32 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice which provides for additional investigation in which the accused may recall witnesses for further cross examination and may offer any new evidence in their own behalf.

The party which led to the charges was held at the Otter Point Boat Club, not far from this sprawling Army establishment.

A nearby resident complained of the noise and State Police arrested the 11 young scientists and turned them over to Army officials.

Pressman, who wrote a letter asking Army Secretary Brucker "to intervene and prevent the destruction" of enlisted men's morale at the chemical center, said the men were singing anti-Army songs during the farewell party. He suggested to the Army secretary that it is a soldier's time-honored privilege to gripe.

Md. Toll Bridge Income Declines

BALTIMORE (AP)—The income from Maryland's toll bridges dropped last month compared with September, 1957, the State Roads Commission reported Wednesday.

There were 7,868 fewer vehicles using the spans in September, and tolls were off $79,757 from a year ago.

The decline was offset, however, by income from the new Baltimore Harbor tunnel which didn't open until last November. There were 848,531 vehicles using the tunnel last month and they paid $367,153.

The commission said that total collections and traffic on the three state owned toll bridges for the year ended Sept. 30 compared with the 12 month period ended September 30, 1957, also were down.

Traffic was off by 1,372,748 vehicles in the period and toll collections dropped by $941,838. A further decline in revenue was prevented by an increase in tolls on the Susquehanna River Bridge.

Tobacco Company Executive Dies

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP)—Edward A. Darr, 68, vice chairman of the board of directors and chairman of the executive committee of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., died Wednesday.

He had been in declining health several months and entered the hospital late Tuesday afternoon.

Darr, an employe of Reynolds for 38 years, began his career in the tobacco business in Baltimore, his home town, moving rapidly from clerk to bookkeeper to credit manager to sales manager.

In 1913 he received a bachelor of laws degree from the University of Maryland. He earned it by studying at night while employed during the day in the tobacco business.

In 1920 he joined Reynolds. In 1937 he was made sales manager and a member of the board. He was elected vice president in 1946 and president in 1952. In 1957 he was elected vice chairman of the board of directors and chairman of the executive committee.

His wife, who was Ruth Ely, a professional singer before their marriage in 1924, died last Feb. 11. Five children survive.

"Hunter" Arrested Inside Loan Firm

HYATTSVILLE, Md. (AP) — Rollin Jerome Dowell, 17, was arrested at 4:50 a.m. Wednesday inside the Suburban Federal Savings & Loan Assn. in nearby Landover Hills.

Prince Georges police said Dowell was carrying a shotgun, a pair of pliers, a screwdriver and a knife.

Asked what he was doing inside the building, Dowell replied:

"Hunting rabbits."

It just so happened, he said, that a rabbit he flushed scurried to the savings and loan building.

Police, who found that a rear window of the building had been broken, charged the youth with entering and attempted burglary.

Achievement Day Speaker Commends Homemakers

Miss Margaret Oliver, home demonstration agent leader from the University of Maryland, commended Allegany County Homemakers on their support of the 4-H clubs, which are more active than in other counties; and urged they reach the 29-year-old homemakers for workshops, if not club meetings. Guest speaker at the 36th annual Achievement Day dinner, held yesterday at LaVale Methodist Church, Miss Oliver compared Allegany County to the state in having two per cent younger members to seven in the state; but the highest with 50 years or older. She closed with the statement that "our horizons widen to community, state and nation, as we seek information that widens the family circle;" and quoted that "men and women at work can be happy only if they feel they are working in God's world and doing His will."

Following her talk the Chorus sang "Getting to Know You," marking Miss Oliver's first visit to Allegany County. Miss Marlene Clark, the county Farm Queen, sang "The Lord's Prayer."

During the business session, conducted by Mrs. Douglas Smith Mrs. Roy Shryock of the Town Creek Club was elected vice president; and Mrs. Forest Snyder, Mapleside Club, secretary. Mrs. John S. Cook announced the RWSC annual dinner will be November 10 at 6:30 at the Y. Mrs. Albert Smouse, reporting on the Civil Defense meeting, said William Barger wants each club to have a designated person in charge of mobilization. Miss Mary Wise commended the various chairmen on their achievement reports, which were compiled and distributed. A poem was read by Mrs. Austin Twigg and all recited the Scripture.

Miss Wise, Miss Oliver and the officers greeted the homemakers, in two buses, en route to the National Home Demonstration Council in Wichita, Kans., and distributed to them Maryland apples and picture post cards of Western Maryland for them to send to their families, when they stopped for Mrs. Twigg, local delegate. As the buses left the 244 homemakers attending the Achievement Day program sang, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." Mrs. Paul Gilford led the group singing.

Fall flowers, arranged by Mrs. Harry Miller and Mrs. Colt Speicher decorated the luncheon tables. Guests were Miss Nancy Marsteller, assistant agent; Mrs. Francis Spoerlein, president of the Garrett County Council; and Mrs. Ralph Buckel, First District representative.

A skit, "Extension Queen on Parade," was presented by the achievement committee, with Mrs. K. O. Nelson narrator. It centered on the six major projects in the county: clothing, food and nutrition, home furnishing, home management, music, home and farm beautification. The family group was portrayed by Mrs. Eloise Shaffer as the mother; Mrs. Mary Pyle, the father, Beth Nelson and Susan Smith, the children. The clothing project was presented in the form of a style show, with Mrs. Adam Baer modeling a nutmeg colored coat she had made; Mrs. Gilford, a black and white tweed suit; Mrs. James Armstrong, a two-piece black dress; Mrs. Snyder, a sport skirt and blouse; Mrs. R. N. Wilson, a late date brocade dress; and Mrs. Fred Gates in a sack dress of burlap. Representing the food and nutrition project, Mrs. Joseph Steger with a market basket, showed the new mixes available and that her marketing included the basic seven foods. For home furnishing, Mrs. Arthur Evans placed a simple arrangement of flowers on a table to bring out that simplicity in home furnishing is the essence of good taste. For home management, Mrs. Arthur Ferguson displayed slanted shelves for skillets, which Mrs. Gilford made in a workshop. In conclusion, Mrs. Richard Trevaskis, who resigned after directing the chorus for 25 years, was honored and presented a gift of flowers and a candelabra, by Mrs. Raymond Burkey, president of the chorus, which sang, "Tell Me Why."

East Side Club Names Committee

East Side Homemakers appointed a nominating committee and received reports at the meeting Tuesday evening at Melvin Methodist Church. Mrs. Earl Smith, Mrs. Roy Hinkle and Mrs. Thomas Buser were named to choose a vice president and secretary.

In food and nutrition report it was announced that the club of 20 members canned 1,542 quarts of food, besides frozen foods and jellies. Mrs. John Aaron spoke on home furnishing, stressing the proper distance to sit from a TV. Mrs. Earl Smith reported on cards sent to the sick and for birthdays.

Mrs. L. J. Miller presided at the meeting, which was opened with the Lord's Prayer said in unison. Roll call was answered with favorite TV programs. Routine reports were given. Mrs. Aaron gave the history of the hymn, "Thank We All Our God," which the group sang with Mrs. Buser at the piano. The closing song was "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain." Refreshments were served by Mrs. Stanley Leasure and Mrs. Stanley Morris. Others present were Mrs. Wilmettie Haller and Mrs. Debra Burkett.

Long Offers Street, Sewer Program

A four-year plan for street and sewer improvement has been presented the Mayor and Council by John J. Long, commissioner of streets and public property.

Its purpose, Long said, is good business and depends on the cooperation of the Mayor and Council, and a bond issue earmarked specifically for street and sewer work.

This four-year plan is determined by priority of urgency and the per cent of money spent and work completed in the city's five districts.

"Keep in mind that for every paved mile of improved streets, the State of Maryland reimburses the city $800 per year. Also, those state of Maryland urban development funds not used are not held for the city.

"The present needs of the streets and sewers chalienges this Mayor and Council. There has never been a complete city-wide capital improvement street and sewer program for Cumberland. The Thruway will be completed in a few years, and Cumberland's adjoining streets should be as modern as the Thruway. The trend of increased automobile traffic makes such a plan a necessity. Furthermore, the citizens of Cumberland, paying the highest tax rate in the state, deserve modern streets," he said in introducing the program.

To finance the program, Long urged the Mayor and Council to borrow $500,000 and earmark it for streets and sewers. This will be returned in liens, street and federal aid, and savings on oil and maintenance.

He said it will be economical and good business to get rid of the established program of oiling streets. Nothing much is gained, but it costs thousands of dollars annually. Much of it enters the sewers and presents another problem.

A new plan of assessing property owners for costs of newly improved streets should be explored and then placed into law by ordinance.

For example, he said, a revolving fund would be set up and it would consist of funds from payment by property owners for street improvements.

This payment by the property owner, which would be the same for all, would be a joint proposition with the city paying a set amount and the resident a set amount, Long explained.

Payments per front foot of improvement would be the same for all property owners in all districts of the city. The fairness of such a plan, he pointed out, is that all citizens of Cumberland use all city streets and in this way all citizens would contribute to the cost of new street work by way of their tax burden.

This Mayor and Council must realize the seriousness of the situation and of the necessity for a solution, or suffer the eventual consequences of indifference, the commissioner declared.

Street construction costs today are more than double what they were a decade ago. This is the result of inflationary trends.

"Can we afford it? A better question would be—Can we afford not to have it? Cumberland apparently aims its every effort to supply its citizens with what it thinks they should have, — flood control, sewage plant, a Thruway, etc. Can such a city neglect to supply its citizens with the most primary necessity of all—the means of transportation?

"The time of decision is here and now. Already there is evident increasing strangulation of automotive transportation due to the lack of adequate streets, that if continued much further will jeopardize the very life of the city.

"All we need is leadership, full public understanding, and the will to act. We can start with our inventory of needs and costs. We can finance the program backed with an educational program to show that operating and maintenance savings will outweigh levies. Then with an informed public and sound leadership, the people will provide the momentum for a better street and sewer program that will overcome one of the city's most complex and difficult problems," Long concluded.

Indonesia has a wet and a dry season, but no winter, spring, summer or fall.

Next time you shampoo your hair, see how you'd look in a new coiffure.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Try On A New Hair Style

You certainly tried on your new fall clothes before coming to those important decisions. But what about a new hair style? Is there nothing else to do but take a chance on how becoming it will be, although it will have more effect on your looks than anything you wear?

Not at all. The hair can be shaped into very reasonable facsimiles of different kinds of coiffures when it's damp and soapy. Get set for a shampoo and proceed as usual through the first lathering. Then stop right there. Press the moisture out of your hair with an absorbent towel, leaving the soap in it, and lather again. Now wrap your head in another towel and leave it on for five minutes.

After the second towel is removed, the hair is in condition to be shaped into the styles you have in mind—you didn't have to have it cut a new way, or set in a way difficult to change if you don't like it. Change your part, push new waves into different places, try a fluff if you've worn your hair close or slick it down if you're tired of fluffing. Arrange and rearrange. Experiment. The soap and dampness holds the hair in position so you have a very good idea of the new effects you might want.

Even if you ordinarily wash and set your own hair, it's a good idea to have a new style started and redone several times by a hairdresser. Of course you need a professional cut if a new one is required, and there's also the advantage of watching the operator so you learn the best way to turn out the same effect later yourself.

TOMORROW: Legwork Must Be Lively to Hold That Trim Line.

YOUR COLOR TYPE — Here's your personal colorscope, scientifically designed to determine just which colors keep you looking complexion-perfect and charming of dress. A copy of my all-new booklet of "Your Color Type" is on its way to you for 25c and a stamped, return envelope sent to "Secrets of Charm," c/o this paper.

the only car with wide-track wheels?

IOOF Lodge To Celebrate Anniversary Here Friday

Some reservations are still available for the dinner and program Saturday sponsored by Chosen Friends Lodge, 34, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, which is celebrating its 118th anniversary with a three-day celebration beginning Friday night.

An official visit by Grand Master Calvin Brincefield, Hyattsville, and his staff of grand officers will be held Friday at 7:30 p. m. at Odd Fellows Temple, South Mechanic Street. Lodges of Western Maryland and nearby West Virginia and Pennsylvania have been invited to participate.

A special session of the Grand Lodge of Maryland, IOOF, will be held in the ballroom at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, begining at 1:30 p. m. Saturday. A tour of the plant of the Times and Allegan-ian Publishing Company, beginning at 1:45 p. m., has been arranged for the ladies.

At 5:30 p. m. a dinner will be served at the temple by members of Colfax Rebekah Lodge 1.

An anniversary program will begin at 8 p. m., depicting highlights of the 118 years of the lodge's existence.

During intermission a musical program and entertainment will be presented.

A special attraction during intermission will be presented by pupils from the Steckman Dance Studios, including the "Anniversary Song;" "Makin' Whoopee," "Blues In The Night," "Pizzacato," "Candy Missies," and the "Boogie Beat."

Accordion selections; solos by Harry Harris, Westernport, and guitar numbers by Byron Green, Westernport, will also feature the entertainment.

During the pageant to be presented, a color guard composed of members of the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps will parade the colors in recognition of members of Chosen Friends Lodge who have served in every conflict in which the United States has engaged since 1840.

An anniversary church service will be held at Grace Methodist Church, Virginia Avenue, on Sunday at 11 a. m. The sermon will be by Rev. Robert Nimon, pastor. Members of the Order are asked to wear regalia at the service.

More Eligible For Benefits In SS Changes

The local office of the Social Security Administration reports that additional persons who have been brought under coverage of the program under recent changes of the law are not taking advantage of benefits.

James Gwinn, manager, said persons who can qualify include parents of deceased workers upon whom they were dependent, dependents of persons who are receiving disability payments, those persons who are totally and permanently disabled can qualify now if they have worked five out of 10 years prior to the onset of their disability, and children who are adopted and now come under the benefits of the program without the three-year waiting period formerly in effect.

Gwinn said these are unusual categories of persons who could qualify, but the number who have contacted the local office has been very small. Anyone who feels he or she can qualify under any of the above rules should contact the Social Security office by phone or mail or in person.

Persons who are over 65 years of age, and who do not know if they are covered under Social Security, should contact the office to determine exactly what their status is in relation to benefits. There are cases where a person waits for a year or so after reaching the age of 65 before seeking information on their status. In some cases it has resulted in a loss of benefits which were due.

Seven Boy Scouts Get Advancements

Several members of local Boy Scout troops recently qualified for advancement, according to John Means, chairman of the advancement committee for Potomac Council.

Robert McKenzie, Troop 6, SS. Peter and Paul PTA, advanced to Star Scout; Phillip Smith, Troop 9, Cresaptown Methodist Church, to First Class, and Howard Van Horn, Troop 89, St. Paul's Lutheran Church, to First Class.

Also advanced to First Class were James Zink, Richard Paul and Jan Withrow, all of Troop 88, Bedford Road Optimists.

WANT MORE HOUSING

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Communist Party newspaper Pravda Wednesday complained too much money was being spent on the construction of fancy administrative offices and sports arenas and not enough on housing. ARMISTICE MEETING CALLED

SEOUL, Korea (UPI) — The Military Armistice Commission secretariat will meet Friday at the request of the Communists, the United Nations Command announced Wednesday. The Reds gave no reason for calling the meeting at Panmunjom.

The silver depository in the United States is located at West Point.

Local School Is Inspected

A workmanship and material inspection of Northeast School was made Monday by Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of public schools of Allegany County, and representatives of the architectural firm.

Mr. Webster conferred with Dennis Madden of Mount Rainier, affiliated with Walton and Madden, and Edward Lefson, an engineer for the firm. They reported the building to be in excellent shape. The students, teachers and custodians have taken excellent care of the school during the past year, according to Mr. Webster.

He said the contract called for an inspection of the premises one year after completion. A few minor items were found. A check will be made with Joseph T. Downey, supervisor of maintenance for county schools and the findings referred to the George Construction Company, builder of the school.

LOCOMOTIVE BLOWS UP

SOCIETY CLUB SHUT

LONDON (UPI) — A Thames riverside country club patronized by Queen Elizabeth's fun - loving cousin, the duke of Kent, and other prominent men-about-town was shuttered Wednesday for serving liquor after hours. Randolph Addresses Rally In Romney

ROMNEY, W. Va. (UPI) —The West Virginia farmer has "become another victim of the two-headed monster of the present national administration — recession and inflation existing in strange union," Democratic senatorial nominee Jennings Randolph said here Wednesday night.

In an address before a Democratic rally, Randolph said there was "an inequitable and unjust spread between the price that the farmer receives and that the housewife pays, with the middle man waxing fat on the difference."

Randolph called attention to "the tremendous increase in profits of food processing corporations and big chain stores, the high cost of food items to the consumer, and low income for the farmers for their products."

He observed that "the economic picture has not been without its bright spots," but inferred those who benefitted were food processors and stores.

Methodist Bishop To Talk At Piedmont Church

PIEDMONT — Pastors and members of the 142 Methodist churches in the Moorefield District of the denomination will have a chance to talk to their bishop and hear at first hand of his recent three-month visit to Africa.

Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke, resident head of the Pittsburgh Area of The Methodist Church, will speak and show color slides of his recent trip at Trinity Methodist Church, Piedmont, Tuesday evening, October 14.

Flying from New York to Lisbon, June 19, Bishop Wicke, accompanied by his wife and daughter Elaine, continued on by air to visit Methodist mission stations in Liberia, Ghana, Belgian Congo, Union of South Africa, Mozambique, Kenya, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan and Egypt.

After observing the missionary work in Africa, the Wickes returned home by way of Europe, making stops at Athens, Rome, Geneva, Frankfort, Amsterdam, Brussels, Paris and London, arriving at the Pittsburgh International Airport on September 17.

BISHOP LLOYD C. WICKE

Dr. Vernon C. Cutright, superintendent of the Methodist Moorefield District, will preside at the meeting. Dr. L. E. Crowson, Trinity pastor, will be host to the visiting district churchmen.

Byrd-Staggers Address Moorefield Demo Rally

MOOREFIELD — One of the largest Democratic rallys held in recent years heard Congressman Robert Byrd and Congressman Harley O. Staggers speak at the Moorefield High School Saturday night after a chicken barbecue dinner.

Byrd, Democratic candidate for US Senator, made the principal address and pointed out that the Republican administration had not kept a single one of the main campaign promises. He said the promise to balance the budget had not been kept, the promise to increase purchasing power of the dollar had not been kept and the promise to keep the peace was a precarious one. He declared that the foreign policy had alienated our friends all over the world. Congressman Byrd also entertained the crowd playing his fiddle with the Barr Stringed Band and singing 'Old Joe Clark' and 'Bile Them Cabbages Down.'

Congressman Staggers promised to continue his well acknowledged service to his constituents and to stay on the job in Washington. He warned of the grave situation in the world today and the serious international position of the United States.

State Senator Ralph J. Bean, chairman of the Hardy County Democratic Committee was master of ceremonies and introduced the speakers, the local candidates and office holders. Introduced were C. E. Hott, county commissioner; Dave Shear, mayor of Romney; William Myers, mayor of Fairmont; Assessor Anton Keller; Clerk R. M. Gamble; Hampshire County's prosecuting attorney Ralph Haines; Hampshire County's former delegate John Blue; and Moorefield's mayor P. W. Clarke who opened the meeting with a prayer. Short talks were made by Clarence E. Martin Jr., candidate for reelection as state senator and by D. J. Baker, candidate for House of Delegates in Hardy County.

Also introduced were Glenn Evans, chairman of the Dollars for Democrats Drive in Hardy County; Charles Davis, mayor of Yellow Springs; William Keller, former assessor and the oldest Democrat present at the rally and the members of the Hardy County Democratic Executive Committee.

The chicken barbecued dinner was served by the ladies of the Democratic Executive Committee.

Lonaconing Council Awards Blacktop Jobs

Town Seeks Lot For Playground

LONACONING — The Mayor and Council of Lonaconing has authorized the Cumberland Contracting Company to blacktop Park Place and part of Castle Hill on a $4,000 proposal.

Work on the 400-foot Park Place and 700 feet of Castle Hill got under way yesterday. The proposal was accepted Monday night at the regular council meeting.

The Lonaconing officials also voted to disband the community decorating committee because of lack of community interest in this activity. This group, which has accepted the responsibility for Christmas street decorations at an annual cost of between $400 and $500, now has only a few dollars in its treasury.

The Mayor and Council decided that if the decorating program is to continue, it will have to be promoted by some community organization.

Robert B. Thomas, town clerk, was instructed to write Good Will Fire Company No. 1 to notify the firemen that the town is interested in leasing a vacant lot which the company owns on Railroad Street for the development of a playground.

For the past several years, the lot has been used as a baseball diamond for the Little League. It was formerly the site of a glass factory which was destroyed by fire some years ago.

A report was submitted that a physician from out of state is interested in locating in Lonaconing. Mr. Thomas was instructed to extend greetings to the physician in behalf of the town officials.

Garbage collectors have complained to the council that many residents have not been cleaning their garbage containers. They asked that this be done periodically.

Elmo Gower To Speak At PSC Homecoming Banquet

KEYSER — Attorney Elmo Gower, Class of 1931 at Potomac State College, will be the principal speaker at the annual class banquet Saturday at Upper Potomac Shrine Club, near Burlington on US Route 50, according to an announcement by Senator Ralph J. Bean, association president.

Although remembered by his classmates as a member of the Catamount basketball team, Gower has, in the time since 1949, gained international fame as a civilian lawyer in Germany, where he defended GI's in courts martial. His name appeared on front pages all over the globe when he was engaged to defend Yvette Madsen, accused of slaying her GI husband who had been a member of the occupation forces.

There were countless other cases which received world-wide coverage. In fact, Gower has a reputation of having participated in more courts martial than any other attorney in history. He has been either a defense or prosecuting attorney in almost 3,000 such cases.

After finishing at Potomac State, Gower, a native of Ridgeley and a graduate of Allegany County High School in Cumberland, received an A.B. in 1933 from West Virginia University. He practiced law in Mineral County and Allegany County, Md. during 1936-42.

Gower entered the Army in 1942, serving in the Pacific, 1944-47 and in Germany from 1947-49, being discharged with the rank of Major. He returned to Germany in 1949 to practice law as a civilian, remaining until September 1957. After a year in Florida, he and his family moved to Silver Spring, Md., where he is now practicing law.

The Gowers have three children. Mrs. Gower, the former Thelma Hunter of Apollo, Pa., was a WAC major with the General Staff Corps in World War II. They met in Frankfort Main, and were married in Heidleberg in April 1949.

Grace Baptist Church, 213 Greene Street, will observe its 25th anniversary tomorrow evening with a program which will begin at 7:30.

Rev. W. R. Keefe Jr., who has been pastor of the church since its founding, said Rev. Dr. Vernon B. Richardson, of University Baptist Church, Baltimore, will bring the message.

He has been conducting evangelistic services which will come to a close tomorrow night. Master of ceremonies will be A. N Billings, chairman of the board of deacons.

Silver ribbons will be pinned on each charter member of the congregation. After the service the members will go to the fellowship hall for a social hour.

In the receiving line will be Rev. Richardson, Rev. and Mrs. Keefe, John E. Effland Sr. and J. K. Trenton, who have served as deacons for the past 25 years, and their wives.

Mrs. J. W. Trenton, the oldest active member of the church, will cut the anniversary cake, while Mrs. J. K. Trenton and Mrs. Effland will preside at the punch bowl. J. K. Trenton will show pictures of the congregation and various organizations which were taken during the past quarter century.

Rev. Keefe, who said there are 365 members in the congregation, pointed out that the members first met at 417 North Mechanic Street, where a dwelling was renovated into a church.

In 1951 the congregation moved into its present church, which has a sanctuary and facilities for Sunday school classes, and the fellowship hall. The building commmittee headed by J. K. Trenton has raised $15,000 for additional building facilities.

The Menace Of Careless Hunters

As cooler weather brings on the odor of burning leaves, and nature's plants begin their annual changeover into winter garb, 16 million Americans begin cleaning the dust from the old flintlock in preparation for the great quest for game. And, if the record of other years is an indicator, more than 200 of these nimrods are preparing for their last hunt.

A terrific toll is taken each hunting season by the careless attitude of the firearms "sportsmen." Nor is it the relative newcomer to the field who comes home most often with a human scalp instead of a pheasant tail or rabbit foot. Age seems to have little influence on the hunter who waves a loaded gun about like a piece of firewood, or the eager idiot who would rather shoot at a moving bush than take a chance on his game getting away, or the thoughtless oaf who juggles a loaded gun on his shoulder while trying to extricate himself from a barbwire fence.

These are but a few of the seemingly endless ingenious ways human beings have of shooting one another while pretending to chase beast or fowl. Mother nature has not made the obstacles of hunting difficult enough for the immature outdoorsman. He insists upon adding a further handicap by running through the woods with a loaded weapon, or climbing a tree with one hand while aiming his gun with the other, or toasting his companions on their successes while still in the field, or just forgetting to empty his weapon if he does return unscathed.

Hunting mishaps are one type of accident which are caused almost entirely by human carelessness. There are few mechanical failures to blame, few scapegoats to accuse. A hunter is either careless, or he is careful.

The latter has a far better chance of enjoying the avocation for many years to come than does the former.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Exploitation

That terrible word, exploitation, is on many lips these days. The British, the French, the Dutch, even in a measure, the Americans have engaged in awful exploitation. But the Russians apparently never exploited anyone but each other and only the peoples who have unfortunately become enslaved to them, which brings down on them no opprobrium.

I see in the "Winchester (Va.) Evening Star" an item about one Jamal A. Sa'd who travels about the United States telling of the wonders of Nasser, the Arab. Says Sa'd concerning colonialism:

". . . this philosophy calls for the exploitation of the national wealth of the colonized territory, through transfer of raw materials to the home country to promote local industries — the process ending in floating the goods and commodities of the colonial power back where the raw materials came from in the first place."

Well, let's look at the record:

For millenia, the oil which is bringing wealth and perhaps some day an improved standard of life to the Middle East, lay under the sands of the deserts. Some of it seeped to the surface and was used for trifling purposes, but nothing was done about it by these peoples who today regard themselves as important and progressive. It was principally the British and later the Americans who went into Iran, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and other Arabian countries, poured millions of dollars into exploration and development, set up machinery and pumps and pipe-lines and in due course brought to the governments of those countries vast revenues from this oil.

It is not the foreigner who exploited these peoples. If anybody did any exploiting, it was the governments which accepted their share of the proceeds and spent it on riotous living of ruling individuals.

I, myself, witnessed what foreign investments did in a country like China. Take as an example, the area on the Yangtze River known as Wuhan, which included the cities of Hankow, Wuchang, and Hanyang.

Hankow was a highly developed foreign-controlled metropolis, with paved streets, schools, churches, public institutions, factories, mills, warehouses, enormous business activity in which more Chinese engaged than foreigners and in which Chinese individuals made more money than foreigners did. Wuchang was an ancient capital city, dirty, fly-ridden, with narrow streets of foul odor. Hanyang was an ugly place where was situated a steel plant.

Those who liked the picturesque rather than the wholesome might have preferred Chapei, the Chinese area, to the International Settlement of Shanghai, but where foreign capital came, a rising standard of living also came. One of the most serious problems that faced China for several centuries was the surplus population in the villages and on the land. The only practical solution was for the surplus men to become bandits and the surplus girls to become prostitutes and slave girls. And that is what happened, the bandits always being a serious problem until they were absorbed in the army.

By surplus population is meant more people than a given area can feed. The bandit groups of Manchuria, Shantung, Kuangtung, Kuangsi and Yunnan became serious political problems because too large a share of the national income had to be spent either suppressing or supporting them. Often when they were absorbed into the Chinese army, their leaders became war-lords and fought for additional territory and revenue.

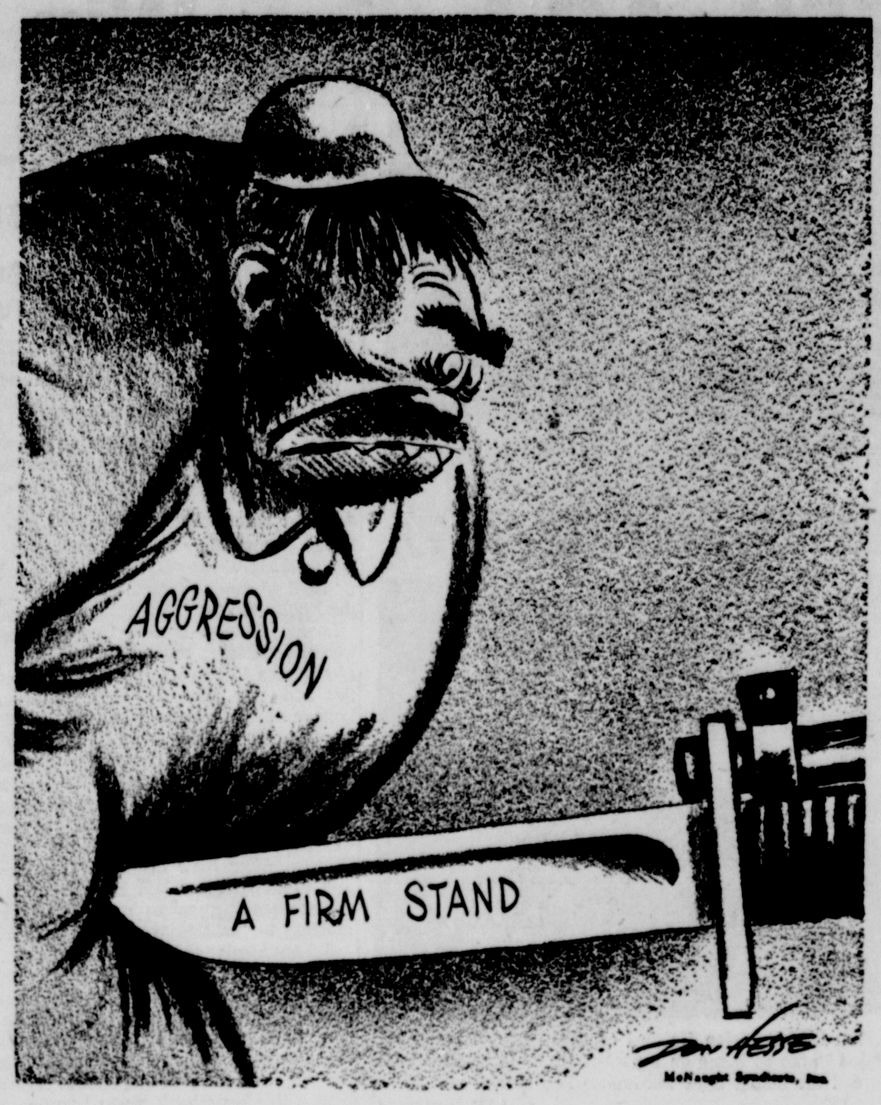

But when a cigaret factory or a cotton mill, by whomsoever owned, came into such an area, the surplus population disappeared because the industry absorbed that surplus either directly or in related supply or service industries. There was no exploitation in this but vast benefits to the ordinary people because many of them for the first time in their lives participated in a money economy. They got wages for their work and with some companies they got such fringe benefits as they hardly knew existed in this world.

True, these benefits whetted their appetites for more money and more benefits which in time led to various forms of discontent and to strikes. This is undoubtedly a normal human reaction to a rising standard of life. But even such strikes did not indicate exploitation; they rather gave assurance that the capitalist system was functioning beneficially for these people. It stirred them to desire more consumers' goods.

Why did not the Chinese, who had plenty of capital, initiate these industrial activities which absorbed surplus populations? Why did not the Hindus or the Arabs do what the Europeans did?

The Great Persuader

Papal Audience One Of Writer's Most Memorable Experiences

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — I shall never forget the face of Pope Pius XII —gentle, frail, very frail, very thin, but strong and compelling nonetheless, with eyes that glowed with great depth of understanding.

My audience with His Holiness took place in the Vatican in the winter of 1951. The Pope was then 75 and so frail that you wondered how he could spend the long hours he did in the raw winter of Italy and not become exhausted. Yet he never relaxed.

My audience was perhaps the most memorable of my many experiences in meeting the world's great men. The Vatican itself is memorable. You pass by Swiss guards in striped uniforms holding efficient looking halberds, ascend a flight of broad stairs, cross a courtyard, then up more stairs to a reception room filled with soldiers whose uniforms, designed by Michelangelo, become progressively more magnificent as you move toward the final anteroom.

Finally His Holiness entered, graciously making us who were not familiar with the ritual of his Church feel completely at home; his ascetic face, his magnetic personality, his simplicity contrasted with the magnificence of the rooms through which we passed.

It was easy to understand why students of the Vatican agree that Pius XII will go down in history as one of the greatest pontiffs in the 2,000-year tradition of his religion as one of the most brilliant men of our time.

Kindly Sense Of Humor

Today, looking back over the troubled period during which Pius XII has guided the spiritual welfare of one-fifth of the world's people, I can remember writing about his battle against Nazi-Communists who riddled his residence when he was Papal Nuncio to Bavaria. I can remember writing about his trip to the United States as Vatican Secretary of State in 1936 to quiet Father Coughlin's tirades against another religious faith. I remember his battle against Communism when I was in Italy during the crucial period of 1947-48; his encouragement of a "just law" for "healthy housing," his advocacy of economic opportunity for the underprivileged, his aid of Jewish refugees during the days of Hitler, and the strong crusading editorials of the Vatican newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano, founded by his grandfather 95 years ago.

But the story I once wrote about the Pope which I like best and which I think epitomizes both his saintliness and his sense of humor is that of the audience he granted a group of Genovese pilgrims, when a small boy, kneeling for his blessing, suddenly looked up at the kindly Pontiff and blurted out:

"Holy Father, when I grow up I'm going to be like you. I'm going to be a Pope."

There was a shocked silence. But Pius smiled.

"Ah, my son," he said, "you do not know what you wish for yourself."

I strongly suspect that is how Pope Pius XII would always like to be remembered.

"Honest Broker" Britain

The British haven't been advertising it, but they have been holding some heart-to-heart talks with both American and Russian diplomats which may have helped ease the tension over Quemoy-Matsu.

What the British have been telling both John Foster Dulles and dour Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is that the two Chinas have become the tail that is wagging the American and Russian dogs.

The United States was well on the way to better understanding with Russia, the British have pointed out, while Khrushchev seemed to want better relations with the United States. Then suddenly both countries have let Mao Tse-tung of Red China and Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China get them into trouble.

The British have emphasized to Dulles the strong possibility that Chiang is merely using the United States to pull his chestnuts out of the fire; that he is the only man who could gain from a real shooting war. The British have also been emphasizing to the Russians that the Red Chinese have much less to lose from a shooting war than Russia, which would have to supply the guns, airplanes, materiel, and which would also risk the disaster of a world war just at a time when Russia is making great economic gains.

This British role of "honest broker" is credited with having a sobering effect on Khrushchev, who may in turn have sobered up the Red Chinese. At any rate, Khrushchev voluntarily issued a statement that Russia would not get into any Far East war unless and until the United States attacked the Chinese mainland.

Washington Pipeline

The Scripps-Howard newspapers censored their own pet columnist, Robert Ruark, for criticizing Chiang Kai-shek the other day. Ruark wrote a sizzling column attacking Chiang. Whereupon Roy Howard, an old pal of Chiang Kai-shek and who also gave Raurk his start in the columning business, ordered the column killed in all Scripps-Howard newspapers . . . Dr. Claude Forkner of the New York Hospital was summoned all the way to Teheran by the Shah of Iran last month to examine prospective brides for the Shah. The Iranian ruler wants to make sure his next wife will be able to bear him a son . . . Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco has flatly refused to campaign for his fellow Republican, Gov. Goodwin Knight, now running for the Senate in California. Vigorous GOP attempts to patch up the differences between these two Republicans have failed.

Quemoy Cease-Fire: Victory For The West?

By Joseph Alsop

SAN FRANCISCO

For anyone who has seen Quemoy at first hand, the sudden Chinese Communist announcement of a week's cease-fire in the fight for the off-shore islands has an exciting smell of approaching victory.

It is certainly premature to start the celebrations. It may be that this Communist maneuver is designed to conceal some dark new military design or complex new political scheme.

Yet the strictly military factors must certainly have weighed most heavily in Peiping's decision to make this altogether unexpected cease-fire announcement, which was not even hinted at in the most recent Warsaw talks. And if you study the military factors, there really is no way to explain the cease-fire except as a portent of victory.

The central fact in the picture is the immense value of the cease-fire to the Nationalist garrison defending the little islands. After six weeks of shelling and five weeks of fairly effective artillery blockade, the garrisons are granted a week's respite, not just to lick their wounds, but to repair damage, receive supplies and reinforcements without hindrance, and restore and improve their situation in every possible way.

Nothing could be more important than this suddenly granted opportunity. As this reporter indicated, the strange inefficiency of the Communist military effort has left Big Quemoy with no more than superficial damage. But very nearly half the entire Communist effort has been directed against the other, smaller islands in the Quemoy group, Little Quemoy, Erh Tan and Ta Tan. And here the damage has been by no means superficial.

While the artillery blockade continued, there was no means of resupplying the smaller islands except by air drop. Troops could only be sent in, and wounded could only be taken off in small boats crossing from Big Quemoy by night.

Little Quemoy has a substantial civilian population, and Little Quemoy's people were dangerously short of food when the cease-fire was granted. On all three smaller islands, the basic ammunition reserves needed to repel a landing had begun to be dipped into. On one of the two Tan islands, only a single well was still usable. In a week, if the Communist cease-fire promise is not broken, all these deficiencies can be remedied on Little Quemoy and the Tans. Sufficient stocks of ammunition can also be rushed into Big Quemoy to sustain a serious counter battery fire — which has been impossible hitherto.

In short, just about everything the Communists have achieved with not much less than half a million rounds of shelling will be sacrificed by this cease-fire. Unless the Communists' long range military planning has been really fantastically bad, moreover, it is not possible to attribute the cease-fire to supply difficulties.

To be sure, the much earlier two-day cease-fire ostensibly granted by the Communists "to give the Quemoy garrison time to reflect," was almost certainly attributable to a supply problem. All the evidence suggests that Peiping began the assault on the islands expecting them to fall like the walls of Jericho, at a blast of the trumpets. The first week of intensive artillery fire appears to have exhausted the stock of shells on hand. At the end of this first week, the rate of shelling declined very sharply. Then came the two-day cease-fire, which was immediately followed by more days of very intense firing.

But all this happened five weeks ago. The Communist positions in the Quemoy area are served by a road and railroad, which cost the Communists something like 300,000 human lives to build. The road and railroad together have a daily capacity of at least 4,000 tons. The rate of supply expenditure, by shelling and in other ways, has been well below 4,000 tons a day. One cannot imagine that the Chinese Communist armies are short of artillery ammunition in the rear areas. Hence it is really impossible to believe that they have stopped the shelling because they are short of shells at the front.

Rule out the supply explanation. Consider the great advantage to the Nationalists of a week's cease-fire. Logically, you are then forced to conclude that Peiping is thinking about abandoning the attack on the offshore islands. And if this is indeed the case, it will be time to cheer the success won by the stoutness of the islands' garrisons and the firm policy of Secretary of State Dulles.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Got urgent preambles from both Democratic and Republican financial committees of this proud if somewhat delinquent commonwealth.

It says my help is required in electing their man to the gubernatorial districts. Which leaves me as puzzled as a goat on a raft.

One of those men happens to be named Rockefeller of the well-oiled Rockefellers of the same name. The other is Ave Harriman whose family owns an orchestra of whistle-stops on the Erie.

I'm telling both committees I'm non-paristan in politics and non-parting in contributions.

I'm in a spot now where I cannot afford to afford anything. What's happened to their petty cash? Who's been petting it?

It's quite flattering to have the Rockefellers and Harrimans solicit my financial help provided the transaction is co-operative.

Most of the time I am as openhanded as a steam shovel.

But I want both candidates to know I depreciate the compliment.

The Death Watch

By Bob Considine

ROME—A not very funny thing happened to me on the way to the sixth game of the World Series. The assignment signals were changed and thanks to one of Pan American's DC7C's I reached Castel Gandolfo in time for a remarkable rally by Pope Pius XII after an involved series of complaints threatened to end his dear life.

Pius once said: "A pope is no good to the church unless he can work. A pope is better off dead if he cannot work."

He had so much to do he just could not afford to die at this time. Things like that have happened before. Perhaps more realistically he is a remarkably durable man, ethereal looking, but wiry as a nail at 145 pounds. His grandfather, who founded the semi-official Vatican paper L'Osservatore Romano, lived to be 102 years old in a day before the word miracle was ever used in connection with drugs. A great uncle lived through three centuries being born in 1799 and dying in 1902.

You are familiar with the spot news announcements from the doctors and the communiques from the little yet world-wide Vatican state. These will be a few reflections on the side.

A death watch is a glum thing to be part of. On the night of the Pope's worst day the press room at the Vatican was filled till dawn and beyond by hollow-eyed reporters from all over the world making small talk in a dozen languages and probably secretly composing ways in which they would announce the death of this monumental figure of the Twentieth Century.

The scene in the Piazza Della Liberta, which spreads like an anachronistic movie set in front of the main gate of the suburban Castel Gandolfo where the Pope was dying, was hard to believe too. One side of the little square is lined with bistros and a bank named for the Holy Ghost. The other side is dominated by souvenir shops and a magnificent church dedicated to Saint Thomas —traditionally rundown-looking on the outside and glorious within.

The bistros had spread their tables halfway into the street. While part of the throng in the piazza prayed, those at the tables sipped brandy and Italy's potent thimbles of black coffee. Children wandering about snapped at ice cream cones. A girls school partly uniformed had turned out with the nuns and chanted the Rosary, the voices of the kindergarten babies blending with sweet uncertainty with those of the solemn third and fourth grade girls. The Pope's personal physician, a former oculist, tooled by in his little Fiat, his face handsome and determined under his gray Homburg.

Somewhere behind the shuttered windows of the palace, which is the color of pumpkin pie, Eugenio Maria Giuseppe Giovanni Pacelli, 262nd pope since Saint Peter, fought for his life in an old fashioned brass bed. Outside the crowd had no word that His Holiness was winning that battle, winning it in a way that caused those in the death room to all but shout later, "miracle"!

Outside the talk mainly was what a good pope he had been and speculation of his successor in tones I found not unlike speculation on the winner of the sixth game of the World Series.

Many Visit Dentist; Few Brush Teeth Regularly

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The United States National Health Survey reports that 36 per cent of us visited dentists at least once last year. City folk followed the "See your Dentist Twice a Year" slogan more than did their country cousins. Urbanites averaged 1.9 visits as against 1.2 visits for rural inhabitants.

One out of five appointments involved extractions, whereas fillings were inserted or replaced during 41 per cent of the visits. The survey also disclosed that 42 per cent of the population had not been to a dentist in three or more years. Approximately 21.6 million persons are without their own teeth in the United States. This is 13 per cent of our people.

Age plays havoc with our ivories and 65 per cent of men and women over 75 are in the market for a full set of uppers and lowers. Some people live to a ripe old age, keeping most of their teeth. They have fewer acid producing bacteria in the mouth, and in addition, have marvelous enamel; it is harder than usual and resistant to decay.

Dentists expect future generations to acquire this type of enamel through the use of fluorine during childhood. Caries prone boys and girls should benefit most from this chemical.

Dental decay is the most common reason why teeth are lost. The process is stopped temporarily when the dentist cleans out the debris with his drill and fills the cavity with gold, silver, or plastic materials. But unless teeth are brushed faithfully and sweets that encourage decay are avoided, other areas became carious. In time, the tooth is destroyed. Cleaning the teeth is the best prophylactic measure. It has been estimated that only 26 per cent use the toothbrush regularly and 65 per cent not at all.

Cleaning the teeth is not a recent innovation. It was done originally with sponges, sticks, medicated herb roots, rags, and the fingers. The first toothbrush was made in England in 1790 but decades passed before it was accepted generally.

The fact that today 65 per cent do not brush their teeth means that this device has not received universal acceptance. Centuries ago the handle was made of bone and hog bristles were tied on the end by hand. Modern brushes are made entirely of nylon or other plastics.

DELAYED SHOT

M. R. writes: My doctor had asked me to return for my third polio shot eight months after the second. But I waited a year to have it. Does this make any difference.

REPLY

Not now, but during the four months in which you were not protected fully against the disease, you were in danger. The third injection acts as a booster dose and should bring up the level of immunity even though taken late.

HEART INFECTION

J. D. writes: Does bacterial endocarditis tend to recur?

REPLY

One attack does not confer immunity and it is conceivable that recurrence is in the offing, so long as the original cause remains. Bacterial endocarditis is a form of heart disease that occurs during blood poisoning. Prior to the antibiotic era it usually was fatal.

PRURITIS ANI

L. P. writes: What is the cause of anal itching?

REPLY

There are many origins of this symptom, varying from nervousness to pinworms. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on rectal itching.

PRESSURES

E. P. writes: Do men usually have a higher blood pressure than women?

REPLY

No, but women tolerate hypertension better than men do. High readings have little effect on their life expectancy, provided the diastolic reading does not exceed 120.

HYPERTENSION

J. S. writes: Is there more than one kind of blood pressure?

REPLY

Yes—normal low, and high. If you are inquiring about high blood pressure, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on the subject.

LEPROSY

G. J. writes: Is there any leprosy in the U. S. A.?

REPLY

Yes but it is uncommon and in the last few years has been reported from only a few states.

TOBACCO IRRITATES

U. C. writes: Is smoking harmful to a person with respiratory allergies?

REPLY

Why irritate respiratory membranes that already are inflamed?

TOMORROW: Stave off wheezing.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Among the more curious of the new products put on the market in the past year is a liquid that smells like a lion—or, if sprayed in sufficient volume, like a whole pride of lions. A Berlin Zoo keeper perfected it. There's a ready market for it, too. Farmers in Zululand purchase it avidly. They pour it into their streams and ponds. Roaming bands of hippopotami, looting the fields and stockyards, get one whiff of the potent Essence of Lion—and get far away from there as fast as their legs will carry them.

"Whoopee!" gloated a young Broadway actor. "My girl's got her name in the lead paragraph of two gossip columns today." "What do they say about her?" asked a friend. Yankees Even Series With 10-Inning Win Over Braves

Duren Gets Credit For 4-3 Triumph

Ryne Fans Eight In Relief; Spahn Beaten By Homers

By JACK HAND

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Gil McDougald's 10th inning home run ruined a magnificent pitching effort by stout-hearted Warren Spahn Wednesday as a 4-3 Yankee victory sent the New York-Milwaukee World Series into a seventh game.

Through nine torturous innings the 37-year-old Milwaukee southpaw, working with only two days rest, dueled with three different Yankee pitchers only to lose in the 10th. Singles by Elston Howard and Yogi Berra finished him off and the Yanks added the all-important extra run on Bill Skowron's single off relief man Don McMahon.

Ryne Duren, Casey Stengel's flame-thrower who followed Whitey Ford and Art Ditmar to the mound, fired his blinding fast ball past the Braves from the sixth to the 10th when he suddenly lost his stuff. The big fellow with the thick glasses struck out the side in the sixth and ninth, fanning eight in 4 2-3 innings before he faltered with two out in the 10th.

Logan Scores

Johnny Logan, who had walked and taken second unmolested while Duren wound up making Eddie Mathews his eighth strike-out victim, scored when Hank Aaron singled.

Out came grizzled old Casey Stengel to talk with his pitcher, as Joe Adcock grabbed a war club. Casey decided to stay with Duren but when Adcock pumped a single to center, moving the potential tying run to third base, Stengel summoned Bob Turley from the Yankee bull pen. Turley, who brought the series back to Milwaukee with Monday's shutout, had to face Franke Torre, a left-handed batter hitting for Del Crandall.

Torre connected with Bob's third pitch and the ball sailed toward short right field with second baseman McDougald in full pursuit. For a split second it seemed it would fall safely for a hit. McDougald had it all the way, as it turned out, gloving the ball for the game-ending out.

Thus ended the last-gasp effort of the Braves to save Spahn who deserved a better fate. All through the dreary afternoon he had fought off the Yankees although he hadn't worked with such a short rest since 1956. Four Milwaukee errors kept him walking a tightrope all day long.

Hits Next Pitch

With the score tied at 2-2, McDougald led off the Yankee 10th. He had one of the six hits off Spahn up to that time. Spahnie got one called strike on him. But the next pitch did it.

McDougald rode his second pitch deep into the left field bleachers—a 375-foot blow, and a deep sigh rent the soggy air.

Spahn settled down to retire the next two batters. But when Howard and Berra singled, Manager Fred Haney decided his ace had taken enough.

As Haney trudged from the gloom of the Braves' dugout, the crowd of 46,367 gave Spahn a deserved roaring ovation.

The scene was packed with drama for the crowd realized that Spahn had hoped to match the 1957 feat of his roomie—Lew Burdette—who humbled the Yanks three times last October.

Braves continued to strike out all over the place. Wednesday's 12 victims gave them an unwanted series record of 53, surpassing the Chicago Cubs of 1929.

Eddie Mathews also moved to a record that he will not boast of to his grandchildren. He struck out twice, a total of 11 for the series. No series batter ever had done that badly. The old high was 10.

Both managers gambled by starting their ace pitchers with only two days rest. It soon became obvious that Whitey Ford, the Yanks' chunky lefty, didn't have it.

It seemed that Spahn also was going to have to struggle. Hank Bauer homered over the left field barrier, about 360 feet away, with two out in the first inning.

Milwaukee quickly tied the score against Ford in the first on Red Schoendienst's lead-off single, Johnny Logan's sacrifice and Hank Aaron's single.

It was the first run batted in for Hank during the series.

With one out in the second, the Braves ripped into Ford. Wes Covington singled to center. And Pafko hit the first pitch to right field for another single. Spahn also singled to center scoring Covington.

After Schoendienst drew a walk, Stengel made his first of many trips from dugout to mound. He called for Art Ditmar, the right-hander he had considered as a possible starter.

Gets Out Of Jam

Ditmar got out of the jam when Logan flied to Howard in short left and Pafko tried to score. Howard's fine peg, in the air all the way, nipped Pafko about eight feet from the plate for an inning-ending double play.

Spahnie jealously nursed that 2-1 lead, fighting off the snapping Yankees and his own sloppy defenders.

The Yanks never had more than one man on base in the first five innings, but they lit into Spahn in the sixth.

Mickey Mantle and Howard singled. When Bill Bruton, who had just entered the game for defensive purposes, fumbled the ball, Mantle went all the way to third.

Berra's sacrifice fly to Bruton was so deep that the throw came to second base instead of the plate, Mantle scoring easily.

Stengel sent up Enos Slaughter, a left-handed batter, and Enos grounded out to second.

Duren took over then because Lumpe had batted for Ditmar.

Adcock and Crandall each looked at a third strike in the sixth. Covington singled but Bruton went down swinging.

In the seventh Duren whiffed Spahn and got the next two on liners to left field. In the ninth, Covington, Bruton and Spahn all whiffed.

After McDougald's homer and the extra run that proved to be so important, Duren went out for the 10th.

Duren Complains

Schoendienst quickly rolled out but Logan walked on a 3-2 pitch. Duren bitterly complained of the call by Umpire Charlie Berry and started in from the hill with a few words and gestures.

When he stopped fuming and fussing, Duren looked up to see Mathews, the Yanks' favorite pigeon. Eddie looked at a third strike whizzing by and sank into the record books. His 11th series strikeout erased the old high of 10 set by Pittsburgh's Bill Abstein in 1909. Incidentally, the Pirates fired Abstein after that horrible performance.

With only one out to go, Duren went to 2-2 on Aaron before the Braves' right-fielder singled to left, scoring Logan. That brought Casey to the hill for his decision to let Duren pitch to Adcock. When Adcock also singled, moving the tying run to third, Stengel brought in Turley.

It was all over when Torre flied to McDougald.

PAFKO THROWN OUT AT PLATE — The Milwaukee Braves' threat to break the game open in the second inning yesterday died when Andy Pafko was thrown out at the plate, trying to score from third on a short fly ball to left field. New York Yankees left fielder Elston Howard caught Johnny Logan's fly and doubled Pafko at home on a perfect throw to catcher Yogi Berra to end the inning after Milwaukee had scored once for a 2-1 lead. Frank Torre, a left-handed hitter, batted for Crandall. Turley's first pitch was a called strike. Torre fouled off the second pitch then sent a soft liner to McDougald at the edge of the outfield grass.

Yanks win 4-3.

Layne Passing Well In Drills

Parker Pleased By Quarterback's Play

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — "He was hitting 'em short and long."

That was the summation of Pittsburgh Steeler Coach Buddy Parker after watching his newly-acquired quarterback, Bobby Layne, perform in a lengthy passing workout Wednesday.

"He'll be ready to start against the Eagles Sunday," Parker said.

Layne, the tow-headed Texan who helped Parker-coached Detroit Lion teams to three divisional titles and two National Football League championships, was picked up earlier this week in a trade with the Motor City eleven.

He was expected to give the deflated Steelers a lift after successive losses to the San Francisco Forty-Niners and the Cleveland Browns. After their dismal 45-12 loss to the Browns last Sunday, the players themselves called a meeting to "talk things over."

But one Steeler said Wednesday, "Layne is worth 10 of those meetings. We needed a take-charge guy and a leader. He's it."

In his first game as a Steeler this Sunday at Pitt Stadium, Bobby will resume his long personal duel with quarterback Norm Van Brocklin of Philadelphia's Eagles.

Chinese Runner Sets New Mark

TOKYO (AP)—A Chinese distance runner shaved almost six minutes off the national marathon record Wednesday, the Peiping Radio said.

Sun Yu-hsui covered 42 kilometers 195 meters 26 miles, 212 yards in 2 hours, 36 minutes 15.2 seconds at a Peiping municipal contest, the radio said. The old Chinese record was 2:42:03.2.

"Last-Second Decision" Sent Pafko To The Plate

Andy Was Doubled To End Brave Rally

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A "last-second decision" spawned by the fleeting memory of an incident in the second World Series game haunted Coach Billy Herman and the Braves after the sixth game Wednesday.

The play that cost the crestfallen Herman and the Braves so dearly came in the second inning Wednesday with one run in, one out and the bases loaded.

Shortstop Johnny Logan sent a looping fly ball to medium left field. The Yankees' Elston Howard caught the ball and then—to the surprise of many —Herman sent in the slow-footed Andy Pafko to certain death at the plate. The double play killed a promising rally and left Herman open to one of the biggest second guesses of the series to date.

"I wasn't going to send him in at first," a dejected Herman said while slumped in a corner of the Braves' clubhouse minutes after the Yankees' 4-3 victory in 10 innings.

"Then, at the last second I thought of that throw Howard made in the second game here, the one that went over Yogi Berra's head," Herman continued in a low voice. The throw he referred to came in the Braves' seven-run frame of a game they won 13-5.

"It's just as if a voice told me to change my mind," Herman continued, obviously upset by the turn of events that enabled the Yanks to tie the series at three games apiece. "That's the way it goes, I guess."

Manager Fred Haney washed his hands of the play, saying: "I was not in a position to see it from where I was. The bench is not a good spot. That's what we've got coaches for. Herman sent him in. Andy didn't go on his own."

Across the room, the 37-year-old Pafko indicated that he was surprised at Herman's decision. Said Pafko:

"Billy told me to go. I was sure the ball wasn't hit too far so I yelled, 'Billy, what should I do?' He said, 'Yeah, go,' or something like that. I didn't have a chance the way he threw that ball."

Haney stalked around his cubicle, muttering under his breath. Then he said, "We had plenty of chances to score. What'd we leave on base—nine?"

"We should have won it in nine," declared the bantam Braves' manager.

"Hookie (Warren Spahn) pitched a helluva game," Haney continued. "We should have won it for him."

Mathews Sets Two Whiff Marks

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Eddie Mathews of the Milwaukee Braves set two unwanted records when he struck out in the 10th inning of the sixth world series game on Wednesday.

It was Mathews' 11th strikeout of the Series, wiping out the record 10 set by Bill Abstein of the Pirates in 1909.

It also was the 53rd Milwaukee strikeout of the series, surpassing by three the record set by the Chicago Cubs of 1929.

Army Picked To Beat Irish In Glamor Game

Terps Are Selected Over Texas Aggies

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Army and Notre Dame have their own private World Series Saturday at South Bend in the "glamor game" of the 1958 football season.

Notre Dame is slightly favored. We like Army. Our picks this week:

Army 21, Notre Dame 13: The West Point men, beaten a year ago, have tremendous team speed and a desire to go with it. The lonesome end shouldn't be so lonesome.

Wisconsin 14, Purdue 8: A battle of two unbeaten, untied teams. The Badgers have won the last nine with Purdue. Why not 10?

Michigan State 24, Pittsburgh 13: Pitt is big and strong but the Spartans are quicker and more subtle.

Navy 14, Michigan 12: Ordinarily the vote here would be Michigan but the Wolverines are crippled and left a lot of fight at Michigan State.

Duke 18, Baylor 14: The addition of speedster Dave Sime as a flanker end gives the reeling Blue Devils a sharper fork.

Oregon 20, Southern California 12: The Rose Bowl team showed its mettle against Oklahoma.

Georgia Tech 20, Tennessee 6: The Volunteers are in a rebuilding stage and the sophs are not yet good enough.

The others:

EAST — Yale 21, Columbia 7; Brown 12, Dartmouth 0; Colgate 20, Bucknell 6; Penn State 20, Marquette 7; Princeton 18, Penn 7; Syracuse 13, Cornell 8; Villanova 15, Detroit 14; Harvard 19, Lehigh 0.

MIDWEST—Ohio State 23, Illinois 14; Southern Methodist 28, Missouri 12; Tulsa 18, Oklahoma State 7; Nebraska 20, Kansas State 6; Iowa State 13, Kansas 0; Iowa 15, Indiana 0.

SOUTH — Auburn 25, Kentucky 7; Georgia 13, Florida State 12; Alabama 14, Furman 0; Maryland 13, Texas A&M 7; North Carolina 15, South Carolina 12; Mississippi State 27, Memphis State 0; Clemson 14, Vanderbilt 7; Mississippi 20, Tulane 8.

SOUTHWEST—Rice 18, Arkansas 12; Houston 25, Wichita 7; Texas Christian 13, Texas Tech 7.

FAR WEST—California 21, Utah 8; Oregon State 18, Wyoming 7; Air Force 15, Colorado State 0; College of the Pacific 20, Brigham Young 8; Washington State 28, Idaho 6; Colorado 13, Arizona 0; Washington 13, Stanford 7.

Burdette To Go For Braves, Yanks' Pick Is Undecided

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Manager Fred Haney of the Milwaukee Braves Wednesday named Lew Burdette to pitch the final game of the World Series Thursday against either Don Larsen or John Kucks of the New York Yankees.

Burdette has a 1-1 record in the series. He beat the Yankees 13-5 in the second game, and lost to them, 7-0, in the fifth game.

Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees would not definitely name his starter but indicated he was leaning toward Larsen, the only pitcher who has ever hurled a perfect game in World Series competition and who had beaten the Braves with relief help from Ryne Duren in the third game, 4-0.

Kucks has appeared twice in relief without a decision.

2-Point Play Popular In ACC

Teams Successful 14 Of 27 Attempts

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Going for two points instead of the traditional one after touchdowns has proven both popular and profitable in the early stages of the 1958 Atlantic Coast Conference football season.

Out of 51 opportunities in three games this season, ACC teams have tried 27 times either to run or pass for two points rather than kick for one, according to ACC Service Bureau compilations. And 14 of these 27 tries have resulted in two-pointers, success to the tune of 51.9 per cent.

In contrast, ACC teams have kicked 24 times, making 18 for 75 per cent accuracy.

Only one game involving an ACC team, last Friday night's 8-7 North Carolina win over Southern California, has been won directly by the use of the two-pointer, but several decisions have been directly influenced by the new conversion opportunity — either by way of points already scored or points tried for under do-or-die circumstances.

South Carolina has been most successful with the new conversion opportunity, having made good three of three passing tries and two of run running attempts. The Gamecocks, winners of two of three starts, have not yet tried a point-after-touchdown kick. Wake Forest, N. C. State and Duke have yet to try to run one over, and neither North Carolina nor Maryland has yet tried to pass for a two-pointer. Broken down, ACC passing attempts have been successful six of 12 times, runs eight of 15 times.

Yankees Favored To Win Series

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The New York Yankees are "even-11" favorites to win Thursday's 7th and decisive game of the World Series.

Yankee rooters must lay $11 to win $10 under this professional point "spread." Milwaukee rooters must lay $10 to win $10—even money.

This quotation is based on the assumption that the Yankees will start Don Larsen while Milwaukee will open with Lew Burdette.

British Golfers Take Six Stroke Lead In Amateur

Reid Jack Paces Match With Par 72

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI) — British golfers, paced by Reid Jack's superb play, took a six-stroke lead over the United States Wednesday in the first round of the world amateur team championship.

It was cold and the wind, swirling off the North Sea at up to 60 miles an hour, buffeted the players and even rolled balls off the greens as 115 players from 29 countries began competition for the Eisenhower Trophy. Only 14 players broke 80.

But Jack, who won the British amateur crown in 1957, appeared unaffected by the weather. He fired a par 72 on the old crouse to help Britain take a solid lead in the 72-hole tournament with a team total of 227.

The United States team, directed by non-playing Captain Bobby Jones of Atlanta, totaled 233 for the first round. New Zealand and Argentina were tied for third with 236's. Canada was fifth with 240 and France was sixth at 242.

Charley Coe, the U. S. amateur champion from Oklahoma City, shot an excellent 74 but his teammates, who played later in the day when the wind was at its worst, could not match his performance.

Bill Hyndman of Philadelphia shot a 79, Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C., fired an 80 and Dr. Frank Taylor of Pomona, Calif., shot an 81.

Under the rules of the tournament, which is being played for the first time, each country is permitted to total the scores of its three leading players at the end of each 18-hole round. The cup will go to the team with the lowest aggregate score at the end of Saturday's round.

Eamohe Scores In Milton Purse

BOSTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Greenbrier Stable's favored Eamohe drew away in the final furlong for a three-length victory in the $3,500 Milton Purse today before a crowd of 10,225 at Suffolk Downs.

The 4-year-old son of Easy Mon encountered little difficulty in posting his first victory in eight starts this year. He covered the mile and 70 yard distance in 1:42 3-5.

Overhead Farm's Cut Out finished second, three quarters of a length in front of Joel R. Stable's Tense. Cut Out and Tense were the early leaders, but wilted under Eamohe's closing drive.

Eamohe paid $4.80, $3.20, and $2.60. Cut Out paid $7.20 and $4.20, while Tense returned $3.40 to show.

Profit-Taking Interrupts Market's Record Climb

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market's rise to record highs faltered on profit taking Wednesday with prices mixed at the close.

While the averages of leading stocks were a shade lower there were a few more gainers than losers in the list.

Nine of the most active stocks advanced, four declined and two were unchanged.

Volume swelled to 3,680,000 shares from 3,570,000 Tuesday.

The day was inconclusive based on market statistics. Along with the profit taking there was considerable investment and speculative demand. The ticker tape ran late for eight minutes in early trading when an irregular advance got under way. This faded and a lower trend prevailed by mid-session.

A rise in copper, lead and zinc prices prompted a sudden late recovery which seemed destined to give the market another advance. But enthusiasm waned and prices softened again in the final half hour when the first innings of a crucial World Series game were being played.

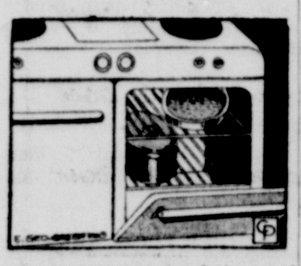

Overall business news remained favorable. Included as an item that paperboard demand has risen to the highest level in a year. This is a sensitive barometer of industries that package their goods. Some paper manufacturing stocks made good gains.

Utilities edged to a new 1958 high. Electronics and a variety of selected issues rose. The pattern was lower for big three motors, rails, oils and aircrafts.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 heart	4 spades	5 hearts
Pass	Pass	5 spades	Pass
Pass	6 hearts	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Spade king.

Today's hand provided a bit of excitement when it came up in a recent tournament. Altho the West players found themselves possessors of a nine card spade suit, the best result any of them could attain was to take a 500 point sacrifice against the North-South slam.

In the West seat every player overcalled South's one heart opening with a preemptive bid of four spades. North raised freely to five hearts and South was forced to pass inasmuch as partner's bid was made under considerable pressure.

The freak distribution inspired most Wests to persist to five spades and at this point North made an enlightening call — a forcing pass. This requests partner to either double the opponents or else go on to six. He felt that there was an excellent prospect for slam if South held three aces, and that with only two aces South would be forced to double.

At the table where the diagramed bidding took place, South carried on to six hearts and West elected to defend.

West opened the king of spades and shifted to the eight of clubs. Declarer won the trick with the dummy's king. Trumps were extracted in two rounds and it seemed like smooth sailing since there seemed little doubt that a long diamond could establish itself for the discard of a club. But the first lead of diamonds showed that a long card in that suit could not be developed.

South saw that a squeeze would be required to fulfill the contract inasmuch as East obviously had the burden of protecting both minor suits. Declarer therefore cashed the ace of clubs and ran out all his trumps, coming down to the queen and one diamond and the seven of clubs, while the dummy held king and two small diamonds.

East, forced to reduce to three cards, had his choice of letting go the high club or unguarding the protection in diamonds.

The maximum North - South result was achieved at a table where declarer took all the tricks. West elected to underlead his ace-king of spades in the hope that East held the queen and could then give him a diamond ruff. South won the trick and proceeded to execute the same squeeze on his opponent.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—The upturn in grains continued today with futures prices closing generally fair on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed up ⅛ to ¾ cent; corn (old) up ¼ to ½ cent; (new) up ⅛ to ⅝ cent; oats up ¼ to off ⅛ cent; rye up ⅛ to off ¼ cent; soybeans up ⅛ to ⅝ cent.

The entrance of export houses into an already vigorous trade triggered another day of heavy buying activity.

With commission houses selling, hedges were lifted against sales of wheat to India and Japan. One million bushels went to Japan: India purchased 2,150,000 bushels hard and 2,560,000 bushels white wheat.

Commercial interests, locals and commission houses sparked a buying movement that dominated corn trade throughout the session. Reports of rain in the corn belt stimulated buying.

Trade in oats was quiet, but prices remained firm. Cash houses did most buying.

Rain over the harvest belt encouraged buying in soybeans. Processors sold January contracts on the advance.

Grains at outside markets also were firm. The range:

McKeldin Calls Democratic Planks Hokum

Tawes Proposes SRC Reorganization

By The Associated Press

The Democratic campaign platform was described Wednesday night as "horrible hokum" by Republican Gov. McKeldin.

"And the present candidates of that party stand unsteadily on its phantom planks," the governor said in a speech at Woodstock College.

"They promise all things to all men."

On the other hand, he called the Republican platform "an outstanding example of political frankness."

McKeldin picked out the planks on labor, civil rights and aid to public education as examples of his claims.

He quoted the substance of the Democratic plank as pledging support to labor-management measures "in the best interest of our citizens."

Anything Or Nothing?

McKeldin said "that could mean anything or nothing," even support of right-to-work legislation "if the necessary pressures were brought to bear."

The GOP platform declares "we see in Maryland no reason for additional legislation affecting labor."

"There is a plank that really closes the door on obstructive, labor-baiting legislation," McKeldin commented. "There is a plank that offers nothing to those who would destroy the unions of workers."

On civil rights, the governor said the "Democratic platform does nothing more than call for obedience to the law." The Republican plank not only accepts the Supreme Court order banning school segregation, but significantly voices approval of it, McKeldin said.

In addition, it disapproves discrimination on the basis of color in other fields.

The governor claimed the Democrats do no more than repeat the law in expressing belief that the "educational programs in our political subdivisions are a joint responsibility of those political subdivisions and the state."

Definite Proposals

"The Republican platform makes definite and constructive proposals — state incentive aid for the expansion of vocational high schools, more junior colleges with such public institution becoming branches of the State University, salary increases for teachers based on ability, aptitude and knowledge," Mc Keldin pointed out.

While the Republicans were picking apart his party platform, Tawes announced he would seek reorganization of the State Roads Commission if elected governor.

He said the present set-up does not provide "adequate planning and organization to meet the needs for present day highway improvement."

The Democratic candidate said he would replace the present three commission members with six. Five would be appointed from designated geographical sections of the state. The sixth picked from anywhere would be chairman and director of highways on full time duty.

A similar proposal has failed many times in the past in the General Assembly. One of its most vigorous sponsors has been Louis L. Goldstein, Senate president and running for comptroller on the Tawes ticket.

Beall Hits Opponent

In the U. S. Senate fight, Republican Sen. Beall took advantage of a visit to the Eastern Shore to renew his argument with his opponent on ownership of tidelands.

Beall voted against federal ownership and has been attacked by Thomas D'Alesandro for so doing. Beall turned up with an old letter from D'Alesandro urging him to vote against federal acquisition.

Beall, on a tour of Talbot County, said that D'Alesandro now has indicated he would favor legislation under which the Chesapeake Bay resources "could be given away to the federal government."

Land Week Meeting Held

The first annual district cooperators meeting was held last night in the LaVale Fire Hall in conjunction with Maryland Land Week. The Allegany County Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors arranged the meeting. Guest speaker was Richard Carson (second from the right), who is a field representative of the State Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Others in the picture, left to right, are Martin Gordon, acting work unit conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service office here; Alfred Broadwater, Garrett County farm philosopher; Mr. Carson and Floyd Buser, chairman.

Glass Plant Picketed As Strike Spreads

Standby Crews Are Supplied By Unions

Picketing was in progress yesterday at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Works 7 here. The plant was struck at midnight Tuesday in connection with a contract dispute which affects 16 plants of the PPG and Libbey-Owens-Ford companies.

Staff employes were in the plant, and Local 180, United Glass and Ceramics Workers, which called the strike, and Local 2001, Electrical Workers Union, were supplying workers needed to maintain the plant on a standby basis.

Charles Buskirk, Local 180 president, said all was quiet on the picket line and that the union is supplying a token number of men to hold the melting tank.

The union set the strike deadline yesterday afternoon and production here was halted in an orderly fashion by midnight Tuesday.

Local 2001, IBEW, which represents some 40 maintenance electricians, said it was supplying needed maintenance men (two a shift). A spokesman said the local had contacted IBEW headquarters and was told the local is not on strike.

Affects 600 Here

The Cumberland plant, most modern plate glass plant in the world, employs some 600 hourly-paid workers, represented by Local 180.

In a letter from President David G. Hill, mailed yesterday to Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Glass Division employes, the company discussed its competitive position and need for three changes in the general union contract which he said would eliminate unjustifiable costs in plant operation.

With the letter an accompanying message was sent to Cumberland personnel from Robert M. Hainsfurther, plant manager.

Mr. Hainsfurther said the Cumberland plant has operated under a supplemental agreement to the general contract which covers the other plants and that the three contract sections in dispute are not applicable to Cumberland.

He further stated that there have been no problems with respect to over-manning, waste of manpower and materials at the local plant.

Explains Position

The contract between the firms and the United Glass and Ceramics Workers of North America has expired. Some PPG plants were struck earlier this week and on Tuesday the union notified its membership to proceed immediately with strikes at the 16 PPG and LOF plants and to have the orderly shutdowns completed by Friday.

In his letter, Mr. Hill said PPG had requested changes needed to eliminate over-manning and waste of manpower and materials.

He said the provisions would increase productivity and improve procedures so incentive rates might be installed more rapidly.

To facilitate greater security on layoffs, the firm suggested the use of promotion schedules which have already been installed in window glass plants and the Cumberland plant.

He said bargaining on these matters was never completed because of a stalemate on the issue of over-manning and other issues which contribute to unjustifiable operating cost.

Retired Miner Found Shot In Garrett Home

A 69-year-old retired coal miner of Mt. Lake Park was found dead on a bedroom floor of his home yesterday afternoon.

Robert Allen Sharpless, according to authorities, died as a result of a self-inflicted rifle wound in his left chest.

Dr. James Feaster, acting county deputy medical examiner, ruled the death a suicide. State Police said the victim used an 8 mm. German army rifle in shooting himself.

Mr. Sharpless was found on the bedroom floor and the rifle was nearby. Doctor Feaster said the man had been downstairs watching a television program with his wife.

He told her he was going upstairs to the bathroom and asked her to turn the television sound up so he could hear it when he left the room.

Shortly afterward the man shot himself. He and his wife were the only ones in the house at the time of the shooting, about 3:30 p. m. (EST).

The rifle reportedly had been brought back to the States by a son who served in Europe during World War II.

Tfc. D. A. Tucker and a sheriff's deputy of Garrett County investigated.

A native of Garrett County, the victim had lived in Mt. Lake Park for about three years. Prior to that he lived in Kitzmiller.

A son of the late William and Jane (Davis) Sharpless, he was born on November 30, 1888. Mr. Sharpless was a member of United Mine Workers Local 8166, District 16.

Meet The Candidates

WILLIAM WALSH
Democrat

William Walsh, local attorney and special assistant attorney general in the Maryland General Assembly in 1957, is a Democratic candidate for the House of Delegates from Allegany County.

He was born in Cumberland in 1930 and practices law with his father, former Attorney General William C. Walsh, and is an associate of the law firm of Miles, Walsh and Stockbridge.

He attended St. Patrick's Parochial School and LaSalle High School, and in 1951 was graduated from Georgetown University with the degree of AB, obtained his LLB from the University of Maryland Law School in June 1954, and was admitted to the Maryland State Bar in November of the same year. During part of his last year in law school he worked for the Legal Aid Society in Baltimore.

After graduation from law school, Mr. Walsh worked for a year as law clerk for Judge Morris A. Soper of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, which circuit comprises the states of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina.

During this time he also spent two months in the Department of Legislative Reference at Annapolis during the 1955 Session of the General Assembly of Maryland. This department is under the direction of Dr. Carl N. Everstine, formerly of this city, and the department is charged with the duty of drafting and preparing legislation for members of the House of Delegates and the State Senate.

He began the practice of law in Cumberland in September 1955, and has practiced here since that time except for three months spent in Annapolis as a special assistant attorney general, assigned to represent the attorney general's office for the purpose of advising the members of the Maryland Legislature during the 1957 session.

He has been chairman of the Allegany County Chapter of the American Cancer Society since its inception in 1955, is an area vice president of the United Fund, vice president of the Cumberland Branch of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, president of the Young Democrats of Allegany County, a director of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club, secretary of the Allegany County Bar Association, and a member of the Knights of Columbus, Elks, Jaycees and Eagles.

He joined the Maryland National Guard in 1948, attending the weekly drills throughout his college career and while at law school. In all he had nine years of service in the Guard, and attained the rank of sergeant.

His maternal grandfather was the late James A. Nee, of this city, who worked for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company for over 40 years, and who served for many years as general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Mr. Walsh is married to the former Louise Gable McMullen, and they and their two-year-old son, William Walsh Jr., reside at 529 Cumberland Street, Cumberland.

WILLIAM A. WILSON
Republican, Midland

William A. Wilson will be one of the three Republican candidates for county commissioner in the November 4 election here.

He finished in first place among the 12 Republican candidates who sought nomination in the May 20 primary. His running mates will be James Orr, Cumberland, and Simeon W. Green, Frostburg.

He was born in Cumberland, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Wilson, 226 Cecelia Street and lived in Cumberland until 1938, when he married the former Aleda H. Blair, of Midland.

The Wilsons reside in Midland with their three daughters, Willeda, a student at Frostburg State Teachers College; Martha Lou and Ruth Lee, students at Midland Elementary School.

Mr. Wilson was graduated from the old Pennsylvania Avenue High School in 1931. He worked in the county commissioners office in 1937 as a clerk and in 1938 transferred to the clerk of court's office as a license clerk. He held that position until 1950.

He is secretary-treasurer of the Cumberland Office Supply Company.

From 1950 to 1957 he was president of the Election Board. Last December 2 he assumed his duties as a county commissioner after being appointed by Gov. McKeldin upon recommendation of the Allegany County Republican Committee. He filled a vacancy created by the resignation of William H. Lemmert, of Frostburg.

He is a member of the Georges Creek Lodge, AF and AM, Lonaconing Republican Club, Lonaconing Lions Club and Midland Fire Department.

For the past 14 years he has been treasurer of the Maryland State Firemen's Association.

Last night Mr. Wilson said:

"During the year that I have served on the Board of County Commissioners I have interested myself in every phase of county government, and particularly the public services supervised by the County Commissioners, including the operation of the county roads, repair and maintenance of county buildings, and the care and treatment of the unfortunate citizens of Allegany County who for one reason or another are confined to the county institutions. In all these things I have been interested, not in reducing, but rather in continuing and improving the public services rendered by the county, but always in the light of the cost of them and the ability of the tax-paying public to pay for them.

"I believe that it is the obligation of every county commissioner to know and understand the function and operation of every county department, and it is my intention to continue to subject every department to close supervision in order that the costs of local government can be kept at an absolute minimum."

Action On Road Asked

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has received a letter from Major J. Edwin Keech requesting the commissioners to take into the county road system the road leading from Oldtown Road to the city dump.

Mayor Keech wrote that if the county takes over the road effective December 31 the county will receive a portion of the city's gasoline tax revenue.

The city is making arrangements so that county trash collectors can use the dump upon payment of fees.

At Tuesday's meeting of the County Commissioners, LaSalle High School authorities were given permission to put topsoil on the field which the LaSalle football squad uses for practice near the County Infirmary.

The commissioners entered into a contract with James F. Graham to paint the flagpole in front of the Court House for $8. Mr. Graham finished the job during the Tuesday lunch hour.

Toy Collection Is Still Lagging

Toys for Christmas are coming in slowly, Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive secretary of the Associated Charities, reported yesterday.

The CUF agency has been appealing for toys which can be repaired for use in the agency's Christmas program.

Area Child Stricken By Polio

Two-Year-Old Boy In Hospital Here

A two-year-old Potomac Park boy is being treated here for paralytic polio. It is the first case of the dread disease reported in Allegany County this year.

The child, Russell E. Haines Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Haines of Potomac Park, was admitted to Memorial Hospital Tuesday. His condition was reported unchanged last night.

The Health Department said it was informed the child had not had polio vaccine shots.

Informed sources said the child suffered some paralysis of the left arm.

It is the first reported case of polio here although investigation was made of two illnesses in which there was a suspicion of polio. Both children are reported well and there is still no laboratory evidence of poliomyelitis.

The attack came after the peak of the polio season had passed.

The last reported case of polio in the county occurred last year and took the life of Donald Frye, 22, of this city.

The disease appeared here as plans were being made to give polio vaccine shots to first graders in all schools of the county.

Public health nurses have distributed consent slips which must be signed by parents before the shots can be given.

Protection for virtually all school students in the county was completed by the Health Department last year, making Allegany County the best protected area in Maryland.

Since school closed, polio shots have been offered in Health Department clinics.

The Health Department has been urging that polio vaccine shots be secured from private physicians.

Jobless Fund Tax Due Soon

The Maryland Department of Employment Security has announced state unemployment insurance taxes for the third quarter are due October 31.

The announcement supersedes an obsolete notice recently sent employers which stated that the date due is October 20. The notice was incorrect, according to the agency.

The department also offered an explanation of the tax rise which went into effect July 1 as a result of substantial increases in unemployment in the last year.

The rise was in accordance with an "escalator" clause in the Maryland Unemployment Insurance Law, which provides that whenever the Unemployment Insurance Fund is drawn upon heavily and falls to certain levels, tax rates are automatically increased.

The July 1 increase means that most employers will pay at a rate of three-tenths of one per cent of taxable payrolls higher than they have been paying.

The agency said employers' tax rate is determined by a ratio which provides tax levels according to whether the employers' workers or ex-workers have drawn heavily upon the fund.

Boy Reported Shot

Paul Lee Brode, 15, of RD 2, Frostburg, was reported to have been shot yesterday and was admitted to Miners Hospital in Frostburg.

Teachers College Plans Summer Graduate Work

The administration of Frostburg State Teachers College this week began plans for a second summer school to open at the college about June 22, 1959, according to R. Bowen Hardesty, president.

State Teachers College reached the status of a graduate school last summer as the first courses were offered leading to a master of education degree.

It is anticipated that the enrollment, both graduate and undergraduate, may treble over last summer and more courses are to be offered. A catalogue is being planned for circulation not only in Western Maryland but throughout the state.

Mr. Hardesty also stated that some consideration is being given the idea of offering a limited number of courses during the second semester of the academic year at 5 to 6 p. m. or 7 to 8 p. m. each weekday or on Saturday morning from 9 o'clock until noon.

Public school teachers interested are being asked to contact Ivan C. Diehl, dean, to express their interest and preferences.

Industry, Transportation Teamwork Cited By Luke

Teamwork on the part of transportation and manufacturing is a necessary adjunct to the economic well-being of the community, John A. Luke, manager of the Fine Papers Division of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, said last night.

Mr. Luke was the speaker at the annual Cumberland night meeting of the Tri-State Traffic Club held at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

He told the railroaders and truckers attending that industry is dependent on the transportation facilities of this country and consequently is deeply interested in their problems, particularly as they concern the safe, prompt arrival of goods at their destination.

"It seems to me that both of us, transportation and manufacturing, have a real responsibility to this area, partcularly from an economic standpoint," he said, "because if either of us loses business the community also loses dollars. We must work together to increase business instead of losing it so that more dollars are in circulation."

Mr. Luke pointed to today's competitive markets and cited facts and figures concerning the Luke mill's operation as they will apply once the plant's current expansion is completed and production of paper is increased to 800 tons daily, twice the present figure.

He said progress is the key to future success, both on the part of manufacturing and transportation so that new and better products can be handled by new and improved techniques to assure prompt, safe delivery to their destination.
